HOUSE OPPOSES SENATE CHANGE IN JOB CLAUSE

Revision in Civil Service Apportionment Held Contradictory.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The much knocked about "apportionment clause" in the independent offices appropriations bill, last night, appeared in store for further rough treatment, as the House developed strong opposition to the proposed Senate change.

The Senate Appropriations Committee's proposal to force dismissals on a basis of efficiency as well as State apportionment was declared "contradictory" by House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan.

Representative Buchanan, who favors efficiency as the only standard for making separations from the Federal service, said the clause will not operate equitably as rewritten by the Senate committee.

Byrd and Glass to Confer.

Meanwhile, Senator Harry Flood Byrd (Democrat), of Virginia, announced he would confer with Senate Appropriations Chairman Carter Glass to determine what stand the two will take when the bill is called up in the Senate early next week.

Both futilely sought to strike the apportionment provision entirely from the bill in committee. Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, who strove with them to eliminate the clause, said last night he wants to study further the likely effect of the redraft, before deciding what course he will take.

The Federal reorganization program, which holds the seed of widespread dismissals, in the effecting of which the apportionment clause as now drafted would play an important part, will not go to Congress until a week or ten days before adjournment. It will not be sent to the Capitol next week, it was said authoritatively last night. Desire on the part of the administration to "play fair" with Congress, however, and give members a chance to block any features obnoxious to them, will be a factor in an early report on the plan.

Buchanan Objects.

House Appropriations Chairman Buchanan, in objecting last night to Senate proposals to make Federal dismissals on a dual efficiency-apportionment basis, made clear he was expressing only his personal convictions and not the attitude of his committee.

"Obviously consideration could not be given to both efficiency and State

Hoover May Develop Mine

Former President and Ogden Mills Linked in Rumors of Mining Renaissance in Famous Comstock Lode.

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

Virginia City, Nev., May 18 (U.P.).—Unconfirmed reports that Ogden L. Mills and possibly Herbert Hoover may bring about a mining renaissance in the Comstock Lode were heard today after the New York shaft and Maryland claims were sold to the Chollar Consolidated Mining Co. of San Francisco.

The Lode, foundation of a half-dozen great American fortunes, is the greatest concentration of mineral wealth in history.

Franklin Leonard, New York attorney, and his brother, James M. Leonard, today announced sale of their New York and Maryland shafts.

They left for San Francisco, reportedly to negotiate with Mills for rerouting of the Virginia and Truckee railroads to permit development of the Crown Point Mine.

Mills, and Hoover, who was a mining engineer before he became President, are known to be interested in large-scale developments on the Lode. They visited Virginia City and inspected the railroad property on Crown Point on April 2.

Shortly thereafter Mills purchased control of the railroad. In the Bonanza days of the '70's the line was the most profitable in the world. In recent years it has operated at a loss.

Franklin Leonard declared the Crown Point Mine "positively is not for sale." He admitted that unless he could persuade Mills to move the railroad tracks, extensive mine developments, would not be possible. Tunnels must be driven under the tracks and running trains would make the shafts collapse.

The situation led to speculation that Mills and the Leonard brothers might join forces.

RANDOLPH SEES PACT ON D. C. MILK PRICES

Representative Says Agreement Apparent; Urges Committee to Act.

By DANIEL B. MAHER.

The existence of an agreement to maintain milk prices in the District is apparent to Representative Jennings Randolph (Democrat), of West Virginia, who will urge the House District Committee to lend its efforts to aid the proposed Senate investigation of milk prices.

The youthful member of the House District Committee believes there is a combination in existence in Washington which is charging high prices for milk without justification. The chart carried in The Washington Post, he said, indicates that virtual control of the milk supply is dominated by one corporation.

"In Elkins, W. Va.," he said, "we get the very finest grade of milk for 8 and 9 cents a quart. There is cheaper milk for 5 and 6 cents a quart. Throughout the State the highest prices paid is 9 cents a quart."

When he came to Washington three months ago, he said, it was a source of wonderment to him why he was compelled to pay 13 cents a quart for milk. "I tried to find a valid reason for such high prices; but I was unsucessful. The series of articles in The Washington Post has convinced me there is no justifiable reason for the prevailing high prices."

In his opinion, the evil lies in the very wide difference in the price paid to the producer and that charged to the consumer. "I am anxious that the farmer should get a reasonable price for his product. On the other hand I think that the distributor should receive a reasonable profit," he said.

"But in my opinion the difference between the cost to the distributor and the cost to the consumer is too

Plan Insures Jobs Under Rail Merger

(United Press.)

An agreement to insure the economic security of 300,000 railroad workers was reached yesterday by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

An amendment to the administration's railroad bill was tentatively approved by the committee, forbidding the carriers to dismiss employes in event the proposed consolidations become law.

Proponents of the measure hailed approval of the amendment as removing one of the chief obstcales to Senate approval of the legislation. Chairman Dill of the Interstate Commerce Committee was particularly enthusiastic about the added protection to labor.

Naval Air Station Named for Moffett

Secretary of the Navy Swanson yesterday designated the Sunnyvale, Calif., Naval Air Station "Moffett Field," in honor of the late chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, Rear admiral William A. Moffett, who lost his life in the Akron disaster.

The airship Macon will be sent to Moffett Field on completion of its tests at Akron, Ohio. When the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst is closed, Moffett Field will be the Navy's only operating base devoted to lighter-than-air work.

It was learned yesterday at the Navy Department that Admiral Moffett had completed 367 flights in 45 different types of airplanes and airships totaling 1,273 hours and 31 minutes flying time when he lost his life in the Akron. This includes credit for 5 hours and 6 minutes flying time in the Akron on its last flight.

38 Saved When Ship Hits Iceberg and Sinks

St. Johns, Newfoundland, May 18 (A.P.).—The steamship Seirstad, laden with ore and bound from Wabana for Rotterdam, struck an iceberg off Cape St. Francis and sank, it was reported today. The captain and crew of 38 were saved.

The Seirstad struck a submerged berg a glancing blow at 8 o'clock last night, an hour after she had pulled away from her pier. The engines room was punctured and quickly flooded, but the Seirstad remained afloat 11 hours. Her crew spent the night in the vessel's small boats and landed today.

U. S. IS TAKING STEPS TO PEG WORLD MONEY

Working With Britain on Plan Before London Conference.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Preparations are being made by the United States in conjunction with Great Britain to work out a de facto stabilization of currency in advance of the World Economic Conference in London, it became known here yesterday.

The preliminary negotiations are being handled by Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley and James W. Warburg, who have been in frequent consultation with T. K. Bewley, special financial counselor of the British Embassy. Various stabilization points have been proposed to date, but none has met with the common acceptance of the British and American financial authorities.

The difficulty to be met by the technical experts is the reconciling of the present enhanced prices of commodities with a permanent monetary level. If the stabilization of the dollar and pound is fixed too high, a shrinkage of commodity prices is sure to follow and an inverse effect will follow a stabilization figure that is too low.

Franc and Florin Obstacles.

The President has indicated his primary concern in the general rehabilitation of the economic scene is a permanent increase of commodity prices. This pegging of the dollar and the pound will have to be accomplished without sacrificing any of the gains already made in the prices of wheat, cotton and live stock.

The international currency situation is further complicated by the presence of French and Swiss francs and Dutch florins, which still remain on the gold standard.

Any pegging of the dollar and pound, even on a de facto basis, will have to make allowances for these moneys, especially for the possibility that they, too, may leave the gold standard before long.

Gold Equalization Fund.

There is also under discussion at the present time the creation of a gold equalization fund to keep the dollar and pound at the determined levels, free from the attacks of international speculators who have been successful in bear attacks from Berlin, Amsterdam and Paris on the dollar after having successfully caused the fall of the British pound from gold and the rapid depreciation of the French franc, the German mark and the Italian lira on earlier occasions.

This stabilization of the dollar has been under consideration for some time. The only figure that has ever been mentioned is the arbitrary price of $3.50 to the British pound sterling, which was injected into the informal Anglo-American discussions at the

The plane plunged to the ground from a height of 100 feet after the pilot had pulled it out of several nose dives when it developed engine trouble at a height of 900 feet.

The woman was dead when airport attendants reached the wreckage. The man died a few minutes later without regaining consciousness.

BONUS GROUP'S LEADER FAVORS JOBS IN FOREST

"Left Wing" of Ft. Hunt Army Plans March to Capitol Today.

Mike Thomas, dynamic leader of the bonus army's "right wing" at Fort Hunt, Va., last night came out with a whole-hearted indorsement of the reforestation job proposal to veterans made by President Roosevelt.

As Thomas came out with this stand, the main body of the bonus army was preparing to shake the mud of Fort Hunt off its feet and parade from near the Washington Monument to the Capitol, where their demands for the bonus, for disability benefits and unemployment relief were to be presented inside by a committee of 50.

Announcement of the parade was cheered by most of the veterans at the camp last night after the return of George Brady, E. J. Williams, Albert G. Sellers and Thomas from a conference at the White House with Col. Louis M. Howe.

Thomas Spurns Parade.

Disagreement with Sellers, a leader in the larger "left wing," who condemns the reforestation proposal as a move to beat down wage scales, Thomas declared it a way out for veterans to build up bodies shaken by war ravages and unemployment.

At the same time Thomas declared he would not join in the parade today, saying he had made other appointments and called upon his group at the camp not to participate.

"Maybe we'll have a parade of our own Saturday," said Thomas. Thomas, who is an iron worker by trade, but who does not appear in the best of physical shape, said he would probably accept the reforestation job offer himself.

Permit Not Issued.

Also refusing to join in the parade were the three Distinguished Service Cross holders in the "right wing," Ralph "Happy" Voigt, Eddie Tomlinson and John L. Sullivan. The three are strong lieutenants of Thomas.

Although no formal permit had been issued early last night, the bonus clans lustily cheered an announcement by their leaders that the parade was the order of business today and unanimously indorsed the proposal.

The paraders will gather at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue, near the Washington Monument, and at 1 o'clock march to Fifteenth street, thence to Pennsylvania avenue and to the Capitol.

Early last night no word was forthcoming as to whether the men would be allowed to mass on the Capitol plaza. A strong detachment of police reserves was still restively sitting around at police headquarters.

Ouster Program Mapped.

Meanwhile the administration is going forward with plans for establishing a reforestation conditioning camp at Fort Hunt on Monday. It is un-

Hero of Penitentiary Fire Sought in Pal's Shooting

"Big Jim" Morton Hunted After Erstwhile Friend, Who Refuses to Talk, Is Found in Former's Cicero Home.

Chicago, May 18 (A.P.).—James "Big Jim" Morton, hero of the Ohio Penitentiary fire which took the lives of 322 fellow-convicts, was sought by police tonight to explain the shooting of his erstwhile friend, Charley Conroy, in Morton's suburban bungalow.

A physician, called to the armament-loaded house in Cicero, long the playground of gangsters, found Conroy doubled up with a bullet in his abdomen. Ownership of the bungalow was traced to Morton, twice arrested with Conroy in past years and an inhabitant of half a dozen penitentiaries.

Police found in the bungalow quantities of guns, shells and stolen dynamite. Authorities said it appeared to have been headquarters for a gang of bombers and bank robbers.

Police said Morton was paroled from the Columbus (Ohio) Penitentiary for saving the lives of several other convicts on that Easter Monday night three years ago when fire set by other inmates attacked it.

Also sought was William Evans, one-time bodyguard for George Barker, slain labor racketeer. Both were arrested with Conroy last September on charges of possessing burglary tools. Once they were questioned about a bank robbery in Holland, Mich., in which the police chief was shot.

The cache was unearthed after Dr. John C. Smith reported he had been called by telephone to go to the bungalow to treat Conroy. Another man met him, he said, but left hurriedly as soon as he pointed out where Conroy lay. Conroy was taken to a hospital by police. Doctors said he likely would die of his abdomen wound. He refused to talk.

Hugh Johnson Chosen Federal Administrator Of Industrial Control

Congress Told Repeal Would Finance Bond Issue.

Douglas Offers 4 Tax Plans to Finance Recovery.

(Associated Press.)

Repeal of prohibition, Congress was told yesterday by the administration, will finance unaided the stupendous $3,300,000,000 bond issue needed to execute the building program of the big public works-industrial control bill.

This declaration was made by Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget, testifying as the measure started on its way with hearings by the House Ways and Means Committee. But, until the States ratify repeal, Douglas told the committee, new taxes must be imposed to raise an annual $220,000,000. He offered four tax schedules between which he refused to choose:

A sales tax of 1⅛ or 1 1-5 per cent, with no exemptions, or 1⅜ per cent with food and medicines exempted, or three different plans for increased income taxes plus a miscellany of rates in different combinations.

$250,000,000 Expected.

Upon repeal, he said, it will be safe to count upon $250,000,000 annual revenues from liquor taxes. The President in the message presenting the bill to Congress Wednesday, asked authority to cancel the special taxes when repeal takes place.

Douglas was delegated by Secretary Woodin to speak for the Treasury at the opening hearing on the bill, which quickly concentrated on the tax question. He explained it was absolutely necessary to raise the $220,000,000 because the bulk of the public works proposed would not be self-liquidating and there had to be a guarantee on the interest charges and amortization requirements for the bonds.

Donald R. Richberg, attorney, who helped Douglas, Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, and others draft the measure, estimated 1,000,000 men would be put to work directly by the expenditure of each billion of the $3,000,000,000. He also said that with this stimulus to industry and indirect employment, millions of men would be reemployed through the measure.

To Be Reported Tuesday.

Chairman Doughton (Democrat), North Carolina, announced after an executive session of the Ways and Means Committee, that hearings would be concluded tomorrow noon and the bill reported for House action not later than next Tuesday.

Mr. Doughton said he did "not think it would be necessary for the President to recommend a tax program." He declined to say whether the sales tax suggested by Douglas would be adopted.

Douglas, youngish former member of the House from Arizona, spent an

Vast Area Ravaged By Midwest Floods

Chicago, May 18 (A.P.).—Flood waters swept over vast areas in a column of States traversed by the Mississippi River and its branches today, chasing residents to highlands, killing live stock and halting farming operations.

Streams on the rampage, feeders and tributaries of the Mississippi, were the Ohio, Illinois, Wabash, the St. Francis and Black Rivers.

Illinois and Missouri felt the brunt of the rising waters, and forecasts that additional rain might fall on already saturated ground increased anxiety.

Wyoming's Restaurants Ready for Beer Rush

Cheyenne, Wyo., May 18 (A.P.).—Beer will flow in Wyoming at one minute after midnight tonight.

BUDGET DIRECTOR DOUGLAS.

'HAMILTON' NAME OF PROPOSED BANK

'First National' Christening Vetoed; Merger of 5 Houses Advances.

Taking the name of the first secretary of the Treasury, Alexander Hamilton, organizers of the new national bank to be formed of five and possibly more local restricted banking institutions will henceforth call it "Hamilton National Bank of Washington." The Treasury Department failed to approve the originally selected title for the proposed institution, "The First National Bank in Washington."

The latter title was suggested to the Treasury Department following a meeting Wednesday of directors of five banks already definitely committed to a plan to establish the new bank. Yesterday's selection met with better fortune, however, the Treasury Department approving the second name.

While no official explanation of the disapproval of the first name was forthcoming, it was assumed it was because the proposed "First National Bank in Washington" could not assume that title correctly as it was not. A First National Bank of Washington was in existence here many years ago. There also was once a Hamilton Savings Bank in Washington. This institution was later absorbed by Riggs National Bank.

Sale of stock to open the prospective bank began yesterday. Committee are being formed in the five banks, thus far committed to the plan, to promote the sale. These banks are Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., District National Bank, Potomac Savings Bank, Washington Savings Bank and Northeast Savings Bank. Entry of Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Bank into the merger soon is expected.

Stock subscription forms were sent out yesterday to stockholders and depositors of the five banks concerned. These read in part: "I, the undersigned, hereby subscribe for ——— shares of the capital stock of the proposed Hamilton National Bank, of Washington, the said capital stock to be $1,000,000, together with a surplus of $250,000. Each share of

Heart Attack Hits Woodin, Jr., in Air

Winslow, Ariz., May 18 (A.P.).—William H. Woodin, Jr., son of the Secretary of the Treasury, suffered a heart attack as he brought his airplane to the ground here today.

He had flown here from Tucson to surprise his wife, due tonight from Grand Canyon.

Dr. M. G. Wright said Woodin's condition was not serious, but absolute quiet was necessary. He was taken to a hospital immediately after the plane had landed.

Tom Mooney Removed To Scene of New Trial

San Francisco, May 18 (A.P.).—Tom Mooney was brought here late today from San Quentin Prison and locked in County Jail No. 1 to await the start, scheduled for Monday, of his newly granted trial on an old indictment in the Preparedness Day parade bombing.

Mooney was taken quietly from the prison and traveled by motor car to San Rafael, where he and five officers from San Francisco boarded a private yacht and crossed the bay. At the yacht harbor here, the party entered a car and was driven swiftly to the jail.

Baruch Associate Is Offered Post of Vast Power.

Manufacturer, Soldier and Lawyer Has Drawn Plans.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

To administer the almost unlimited powers over industry conferred upon the Government by the pending industrial regulation bill, President Roosevelt has chosen Hugh S. Johnson, soldier, lawyer and manufacturer.

He was offered the post yesterday over the telephone by the Chief Executive and immediately set about whipping together a tentative organization, although the bill had been laid before Congress only 24 hours before. He has not given his answer to President Roosevelt yet, however.

In view of the fact that he was one of those foremost in drafting the bill, the administration expected him to accept the appointment when the post is formally created by passage of the sweeping public regulation-industrial control bill.

Close Baruch Associate.

A close associate of Bernard Baruch, Democratic leader and New York financier, Johnson was a member of the old War Industries Board. He was also head of the first draft board during the World War and since then has had extensive experience in manufacturing.

As administrator of industry with the authority created by the momentous bill which President Roosevelt sent to Congress Wednesday, Johnson will have the most extensive powers ever wielded by one man over the private business enterprises of the Nation.

The legislation, which declares the existence of a national emergency, is designed to present the President with broad powers to approve agreements within industry for the purpose of stabilizing production, regulating working hours and setting minimum wages.

It also authorizes a rigid system of licensed industry, if necessary, to enforce the agreements. It empowers the Chief Executive to transfer this authority to an administrator.

"Not Easy to Refuse."

As a leader among those who drafted the bill the former brigadier general was asked by the Chief Executive to undertake the difficult task of administering it.

Seated last night in his apartment he declined to say that he would accept the post, but admitted in answer to questions that it would not be easy to refuse.

Shortly afterward he went into conference with Baruch, with whom he has been associated since before the war, and Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget, who worked with him far into the night for many nights in completing the legislation.

Called to Washington to lend his wide experience in the drafting of a bill to bring industry together as a cooperative instrument for combating the depression, he had no idea

CHEST TO BE HEADED BY NEWBOLD NOYES

Predicts Drive for Charity Funds This Fall Will Be Maximum Task.

Newbold Noyes was elected president of the Community Chest at the annual meeting of the board of trustees yesterday, succeeding E. C. Graham.

President Roosevelt was named honorary president and Vice President Garner honorary vice president of the organization.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Harry Bernton, Dr. Henry J. Grosson, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Mrs. Joseph Himes and Dr. Kelly Miller, vice presidents; H. L. Rust, jr., secretary, and William J. Flather, jr., treasurer.

Clarence A. Aspinwall and Frank R. Jelleff were elected to fill vacancies on the board of trustees.

In his speech of acceptance, Mr. Noyes stressed the hard fight ahead this fall. He spoke on the crisis faced by the Chest each year from the launching of a new venture to the battle of funds last year and predicted that "now, in 1933, we face, I think, our maximum task so far."

E. C. Graham, retiring president, paid a high tribute to the work of the Chest and to that of the director, Elwood Street.

Joshua Evans, Jr., chairman of the budget committee, explained amounts granted the agencies to date and told of the $40,000 received from the inaugural committee "for the relief of distress" and said that it would be allocated to those agencies handling dependent families and individuals.

Mr. Evans moved that the board of trustees appoint a committee to take up with the appropriate authorities of the District of Coumbia and of Congress the question of legislation which would make possible reimbursement to certain Community Chest agencies for excess expenditures made in caring for families which presumably were the legal responsibility of public authorities but which, for lack of appropriations, private expenditures had to be made.

Farley May Open Chicago Exposition

Postmaster General Farley has been selected by the administration to go to Chicago to open the Century of Progress Exposition May 27, it was said yesterday at the White House, although Mr. Farley said late yesterday that he had heard nothing about it.

President Roosevelt tentatively agreed to attend the opening, but had to change his plans because of the pressure of business. He suggested that Vice President Garner go in his stead, but the law provides that the Vice President must preside over the Senate while it is sitting as a court of impeachment. The Senate is now trying Judge Louderback.

Secretary of War Dern was then suggested as a representative of the Federal Government at the opening, but Mr. Dern has to go to Chicago on June 19 to open the Inland Waterway. The choice next fell on the Postmaster General, who will be notified of his selection shortly.

Gandhi's mental control and conservation of his energy were credited with aiding him. His physicians previously said they did not think he could survive the fast.

Secretary to South Carolina Senator to Be Deputy Commissioner.

Charles E. Jackson, secretary to Senator Smith, of South Carolina, was yesterday nominated as Deputy Commissioner of Fisheries, as it was learned in informed circles that President Roosevelt has decided on candidates for five important posts and will send their nominations to the Senate within a few days.

Mr. Jackson came to Washington ten years ago from Columbia, S. C. He has served as clerk of the Senate Agricultural and Interstate Commerce Committees and was active during the Chicago convention.

President Roosevelt has decided who he will appoint to a vacancy on the Federal Trade Commission, it was learned authoritatively yesterday, and has also chosen two members of the board which will direct the new Muscle Shoals development. Reports that the Virgin Islands may go back under the control of the Navy Department are baseless, it was also said. A Presidential selection as governor of the islands has already been made. A new minister to the Irish Free State has also been chosen. George H. Carter, present Public Printer, will not remain in office, but his successor has not been selected.

Senate committees yesterday voted to report favorably the nominations of Lee C. Colbert as a member of the Mississippi River Commission and William A. Julian as Treasurer of the United States. Action on the nomination of Guy T. Helvering as Commissioner of Internal Revenue was held up after a committee debate of more than two hours.

Mr. Helvering's nomination was reported favorably by a subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee, but after an investigation of charges against him the committee called six witnesses from Kansas to appear next Tuesday when the hearing will be resumed. The complaints yesterday concerned a contract 14 years ago. Witnesses called include officials of two oil companies and members of an accounting firm which gave Helvering some business.

ARTS CLUB CHORAL PROGRAM PRAISED

Cesar Franck and Beethoven Compositions Rendered Ably in Concert.

César Franck and Beethoven shared honors last evening as the Arts Club Choral Group, under the leadership of Otto Tourney Simon, presented their spring concert at the Arts Club. Assisting in the evening's program was Francis Garzia, well-known Washington musician, with Conrad Bernier as accompanist.

"Psalm CL" of Cesar Franck opened the program, a mighty anthem whose rendition loses nothing by comparison with the presentation of the Washington Choral Society earlier in the week. It is rather curious that this Franck opus should largely serve to peg the composer's claim to fame in this branch of the musical art, inasmuch as this particular psalm is an admonishment to "Praise ye Jehovah * * * with trumpet sound * * * psaltry and harp * * * timbrel and dance * * * stringed instruments and pipe * * * high sounding cymbals."

As the final number Beethoven's "Hallelujah" from "The Mount of Olives" was sung with a dramatic fervor that outclassed anything of the evening. Specializing in pianissimos, the chorus lost much of its power through the inability of the higher voices to carry clearly the required tones. In the closing selection, however, the chorus gave full vent to its capacity with the result that the Beethoven harmonies rang clear and true with a force that successfully erased any previous feeling of inadequacy.

Between these two glorifications of Omnipotence, the group sang "Spanish Seranade" (Elgar) and "Winter Scene" of Bantock and "To Zante" (Holbrooke).

Mr. Garcia's offerings included two violin solos, "Cansonetta" (d'Ambrosio) and "Albumblatt" (Bernier), and two cello selections—the Pfingst area (Bach) and "Cynghan" (Bernier).

The personnel of the choral group, of which Katherine Morrison is the accompanist, includes Betty M. Stuart Apte, Edith C. Bittinger, Mary Black, Frances van den Bogert, Eva Bright, Rose Bright, Margaret Davis, Elizabeth Dyer, Charlotte A. Engel, Lavinia Holland, Gladys A. Hoppman, Hazel Gen Hughes, Edna Jones, Elizabeth Maxwell, Edna Morgan, Jean Munn, Alma S. Otterstrom, Ida V. Seaton, Frances Shea, Clara Stack, L. Adelaide Watson, Wallace B. Allen, E. T. Boylen, H. D. Conner, Horace L. Dawson, Charles J. Ferris, George H. Girty, L. M. Leisenring, Fulton Lewis, Frank C. Lundstrom, G. R. Mansfield, Clifford F. Mayne, F. W. Newcomb, Charles William Niederauer, Carl Webster Robinson, F. F. Rizzo, Arthur Vigrass, Andrew W. White and R. S. W. Walker.

U. S. STARTS PROBE OF SHOALS MISUSE

Roosevelt Signs Bill and Warns Public Against Land Schemes.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt yesterday made the Muscle Shoals bill law, radiating pleasure but warning innocent investors against land speculators seeking to exploit the new program for developing the Tennessee River Valley.

He signed only a few hours after it became known he had initiated a Department of Justice investigation into charges that private utilities which have leased the Muscle Shoals waterpower in recent years misused and damaged the great hydroelectric plant, which has lain virtually dormant since its construction by the Government in World War days.

End of Long Struggle.

An enthusiastic group from Congress, including Senator Norris, of Nebraska, and senators and representatives from the Shoals area, applauded vigorously as the President put his name to the law which for a dozen years they had struggled futilely to enact. Norris said:

"The law marks an epoch in the history of our national life. It is a monument to the victorious ending of a twelve-years' struggle, waged on behalf of the common people against the combined forces of monopoly and human greed."

The President issued no formal statement on land speculation, but made sure that his warning be distributed by the press. The land development program is his own, a dream of model communities, of industry brought to the country, of land utilized for its best purpose, of new forests growing where ancient ones have been wiped out, of streams protected against destructive floods, used to their full capacity for navigation and generation of inexpensive electricity. After experiment here, Mr. Roosevelt hopes to extend the plan to other parts of the country.

Ickes Makes Charges.

The investigation by the Justice Department concerns charges brought to the President by Secretary Ickes, of the Interior. After complaints, he sent an investigator to the Shoals, and the latter's report was understood to contend that the Alabama Power Co. and the Tennessee Electric Power Co. had improperly and destructively used the Muscle Shoals substation to interchange power.

At Birmingham, Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama company, denied anything irregular had taken place. In Washington, Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of Army Engineers, who has had control of the plant, said the same. Nevertheless, a thorough Federal inquiry is in prospect, which, it appeared likely, would be directed by Huston Thompson, former chairman of the Federal Trade Commission.

One of the first steps in the Tennessee Valley program will be construction of a dam at Cove Creek in the Clinch River in Tennessee. As soon as funds are appropriated it is expected this construction will be put under way.

A Government corporation of three directors will supervise the whole Tennessee Valley improvement program. Mr. Roosevelt expects to make early choices of these men. He is understood to have chosen two definitely.

Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch College in Ohio, has been mentioned in congressional quarters as being seriously considered for the commission. He has planned and directed about 75 conservation and flood control works, including the Miami project and the Pueblo (Colo.) conservancy workings.

A frequent visitor at the White House, he has been described as having conferred with the President on the eligibility of various men to work on the Tennessee project.

He is well acquainted with the South, having been supervising engineer of Government drainage investigations in 1907-09, and in charge of design of reclamation works in Southern States. He planned an $8,000,000 reclamation project for St. Francis Valley, Ark., and has drafted and revised drainage codes for nearly a dozen States.

The Government corporation will operate the Muscle Shoals plant for the production and sale of power, and is authorized to build, lease or purchase transmission lines to carry the energy to nearby communities for sale at low rates. The nitrate plant is to become an experimental work shop for development of cheap fertilizer.

The gray-haired Senator Norris, Nebraska Republican, who has waged the long and finally successful fight for Government operation of this huge power plant, smiled broadly as the bill was signed. Both President Coolidge and Hoover vetoed similar measures fathered by him, and Mr. Roosevelt gave him the first of several pens he used to sign, saying:

"This is for the real grandfather of the bill."

One pen was given Representative Almon, in whose district is located Muscle Shoals. He had carried with him to the White House yesterday the pen used by President Wilson in 1918 signing the bill for construction of the Shoals plant.

Meanwhile his constituents at home were giving vent to real joy with mill whistles tied down to blow until the steam ran out, and shouting crowds in the streets of Florence, Ala. They had waited a long time for life to return to the great plant nearby.

Fire Quelled in Missouri Prison.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 18 (A.P.).—Fire of undetermined origin broke out in the twine plant at the Missouri State Penitentiary late today. The Jefferson City Fire Department was called to aid in fighting the blaze. The fire was quickly extinguished. Damage was small.

Mexican Bandits Free Two Texans

Alpine, Tex., May 18 (A.P.).—Freed by Mexican outlaws who held them captive for more than a week, Arthur Hannold and John Rollins, Texas cowmen, were en route back to the United States today.

The American Consul at Piedras Negras, Mexico, reported that the men had started from Ocamp, Mexico, to Boquillas, on the south side of the Rio Grande, 130 miles southeast of Alpine, under the protection of Villa Acuna, Mexico, immigration chief.

Candelario Baena, leader of the band which captured the ranchmen, was reported to have delivered them to authorities at Ocamp.

Hannold and Rollins were captured May 9, the same day they left their ranch in the "Big Bend" country to run down four horses they believed had been stolen by rustlers and taken across the Rio Grande. They were relieved of their pistols and saddle carbines at a point about 20 miles south of the border.

JOHNSON IS CHOSEN 'CZAR' OF INDUSTRY

that he was writing legislation which he would be called upon to administer.

"My major thought is that I may not be the most competent to handle this bill," he said when confronted with the assertion that it was known he was to be the administrator.

Johnson was born in Kansas, in 1882, and was graduated from Oklahoma Northwestern Normal School in 1901. He turned to the Army for a career and was graduated from West Point in 1903. When he retired in 1919, he was a brigadier general.

Since leaving the Army he has been vice president and general counsel of the Moline Plow Co., and since 1925 has been chairman of the board of the Moline Implement Co.

Gen. Johnson planned the purchase, storage and traffic division of the General Staff in effect from August, 1918, to the close of the war.

He is a heavy-set man of medium height, with bushy eyebrows, and is known in the Capital as a gruff person to those who first encounter him, but extremely cordial once the ice is broken. He was in the Capital for two weeks, working upon the industrial control bill before other than close administration associates heard of it.

Friends who have worked with him during the last two weeks described him as believing that the success of the momentous undertaking in the legislation depended entirely upon the administrator.

A friend gave this as the General's viewpoint.

"Bad administration could spoil the best bill in the world, and good administration could make a bad bill workable. The success of the undertaking depends on public opinion and public opinion depends on justice and common sense in administration."

The administration is prepared to throw its entire weight behind the bill in Congress and Gen. Johnson is forming a working organization for administration, even should he decline to become administrator.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins disclosed Wednesday that it was the intention of President Roosevelt to put the machinery into operation within less than a week after it is enacted, and she has begun conferring with State employment experts with a view of aiding administration.

Oil Control Plan Due on Hill Today

(Associated Press.)

Aroused by the continued flood of gushing oil wells, the administration will reach out today for control to regulate production in this disturbed industry.

President Roosevelt will outline the situation, which is resulting in a depletion of the oil resources and a ruination of prices, in a letter to congressional committees.

At the same time Secretary Ickes will send to Capitol Hill a bill proposing wide power be given him to regulate production. It will be introduced by Representative Marland (Democrat), Oklahoma, himself an oil producer.

It is understood the legislation would give the Secretary of the Interior the final voice on oil production.

The President was urged yesterday to act in this same direction by Harry H. Woodring, Assistant Secretary of War and former Governor of Kansas, and Thurman Hill, a former member of the Kansas Public Service Commission.

Barnstable, Mass., May 18 (A.P.).—Kenneth and Cyril Buck, Harwichport brothers, the former confessed kidnaper of 10-year-old Margaret (Peggy) McMath, whose $60,000 ransom abduction on May 2 aroused country-wide interest, were indicted for the crime today.

Trial was set for June 12.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR START CONVENTION

Winchester Sees Parade of Order for First Time in Hundred Years.

Winchester, Va., May 18 (A.P.).—Resplendent in their gay uniforms, Knights Templar today marched in a parade climaxing the 111th annual conclave of the Grand Commandery of Virginia, meeting here for the first time in a hundred years.

Winchester and visiting bands played marches and battle hymns of a militant Christianity as the Knights swung along on columns of fours on the same streets where their predecessors of a century ago marched after organizing the Virginia Grand Commandery here in 1822.

Approximately 50 Knights were in line. Streets and buildings were gayly decorated with flags, streamers and bunting of the national colors and black and white banners and pennants of the order of Christian Knighthood.

Commanderies of nearby West Virginia and Maryland cities were represented.

Arriving at Handley High School campus, Grand Commander Claude W. Fletcher and other grand officers paused and reviewed the parade from a special stand as it countermarched on the boulevard.

Old Dominion Commandery, No. 11, Alexandria, was official escort of the grand commander. Distinguished guests included officers of the Grand Encampment of the United States and Grand Commanderies of the District of Columbia, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

Competitive drills were held in the Handley Stadium for the silver cup offered by Senator Byrd.

Entertainment features included a reception, dinner and dance tonight. While executive business sessions were being held by the Grand Commandery, wives and daughters of the visiting Templars were entertained by local women's committees. The sessions end tomorrow with the election of officers and public installation.

Prussian Diet Goes On 4-Year Vacation

Berlin, May 18 (A.P.).—Encouraged by the nation-wide acclaim won by Chancellor Hitler's address to the Reichstag, the efficient Nazi machine rolled on today and eliminated the Prussian Diet, parliamentary body of the dominant state in the German Reich. The Diet, meeting today for the first time since the appointment of Hermann Goering as premier, dissolved itself until 1937, giving the Prussian Nazi cabinet full powers to govern during the extended parliamentary vacation.

Thus, the Prussian parliament was placed on the shelf along with the German Reichstag, which was called into being again yesterday only long enough to rubber stamp the declaration of foreign policy enunciated by Chancellor Hitler.

In session only two and a half hours, the Diet dispatched this vital piece of legislation practically without debate and without opposition except from the Socialist members

Los Angeles Again Hit By Earthquake Shock

Los Angeles, May 18 (A.P.).—A slight earthquake was felt here at 1:55 p. m. (Pacific standard time) today. Seismologists at the Carnegie Laboratory, in Pasadena, said that this and San Bernardino shocks earlier today apparently were not after-shocks of the March 10 Long Beach-Compton quake, but were from a different point of origin.

REPEAL WOULD FINANCE BOND ISSUE, CONGRESS INFORMED

hour and a half explaining the industrial control section of the bill, which is designed to stop cut-throat competition and to assure wages at or above defined minimum levels, and the immense program of public works to be undertaken by the Federal Government directly or through loans or grants to States, counties and municipalities.

But when he reached the taxation section, left blank by President Roosevelt and the Treasury, all leaned forward intently and soon began questioning him.

Former Liquor Revenue.

In regard to prohibition repeal, he said Federal revenues from liquor were $247,500,000 in 1916; in 1917, $284,000,000; in 1918, $443,800,000, and in 1919, $483,100,000. For the last two years the figures included beer.

"Assuming that the yield from the present beer tax is $150,000,000," he said, "then we could expect a return of at least $250,000,000 from taxes on spirits."

Detailing the general financial situation and the need for more revenue, Douglas explained:

"We are confronted with the problem of financing this bond issue. The Government will have to borrow a substantial sum, about $3,300,000,000 to finance this program, and sell other bonds somewhere between $1,500,000,000 and $1,800,000,000 soon.

"The budget probably will be brought into balance approximately at the end of the next fiscal year."

He said he was speaking of "ordinary recurrent" Government expenditures and not of outlays for relief and similar purposes. The Treasury, he said, must count on floating bonds up to $3,400,000,000 on non-self-liquidating projects.

Interest Rate in Doubt.

Douglas was unable to answer a question by Representative Ragon (Democrat), Arkansas, as to how much interest the bonds would bear, explaining:

"We can't determine the rate of interest until we sell the bonds. We don't know and can't say 30 days in advance what the rate of interest is to be."

Douglas read his four tax programs, stressing all the while they were suggestions, and that he was before the committee merely to give information.

The first called for an increase from 4 to 6 per cent in the normal tax rate on incomes of $4,000 and an increase from 8 to 10 on all above, to net $46,000,000 in revenue; to make corporate dividends, now exempted, subject to the normal income tax rates, $83,000,000; and to increase the Federal 1-cent gasoline tax to 1¾-cents a gallon. This would total $221,000,000.

Program two, besides the income and dividend taxes in number one, called for excise levies of 10 cents a pound on tea to produce $8,000,000; 5 cents a pound on coffee, $70,000,000, and 5 cents a pound on cocoa, to net $17,000,000; a total of $224,000,000.

Income Tax Increases.

Douglas said there was serious question whether the taxes on tea, coffee and cocoa would not violate the tariff truce connected with the London economic conference.

The third plan called for an increase from four to eight and from 8 to 12 per cent in the normal income tax rates to net $87,000,000; extension of this tax to dividends from corporate stocks, $103,000,000; a tax of five cents each on long distance telephone calls costing from 25 to 50 cents, to net $6,000,000, and lowering of admission taxes from 44 to 20 cents to bring in $25,000,000 for a total of $221,000,000.

Douglas paused after presenting these three. Chairman Doughton asked him if he had any other, and the budget director replied, "yes."

A general manufacturers sales levy of 1½ per cent with no exemptions, Douglas said, would return $214,000,000, while a levy of 1 1-5 would bring in $228,000,000.

Questioned by Representative Ragon (Democrat), Arkansas, as to what effect exemption of food and medicine would have on the 1½ per cent levy, Douglas said, it would reduce the total by $60,000,000 annually. To make up the difference, he said, the rate would have to be increased to 1¾ per cent.

Beer Aids Revenue.

Legalized beer added $9,139,687 to the Government's revenue in April when nearly every other important form of taxation showed decreases from the previous month.

Collections from the $5 a barrel tax on beer brought the Government $8,269,052, while the license fees of retail and wholesale dealers in the 3.2 beverage added $869,811 and the tax on 3.2 wine beverages amounted to $824.

While the tax on beer was only for 23 days after it became legal, if the sales continued at the same rate the collections in a year would amount to only about $135,000,000 and under some estimates on how much revenue the Government would receive from this source.

For Maryland and the District of Columbia the figures show 152,850 barrels were sold by 500 brewers, 2,483 wholesalers and 22,970 retailers, the tax amounting to $178,804.

Cab Company Files Bankruptcy Action

Practically ceasing operations, the Black & White-Yellow Cab Co., once unrivaled in the local taxicab industry, yesterday filed in the District Supreme Court a petition in voluntary bankruptcy.

Through Attorney J. William Tomlinson, the company listed assets of $7,046.30 and liabilities of $621,827. Since the advent of flat or "city rates" in Washington, the company has been steadily losing business.

The action of withdrawing cabs from the streets was not unexpected, however, as it had been rumored for months. The cabs were gradually withdrawn over a long period.

Jobless Gardener Gets Two Years for Threats

Chicago, May 18 A.P.).—Axel Peterson, 56, an unemployed gardener, was sentenced by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today to two years in Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary for sending extortion letters to Mrs. James A. Patton, of Evanston, widow of the late wheat king.

Peterson yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of threatening Mrs. Patton unless she gave him $50,000.

Government Gets $428 Bid For Old Navy Training Ship

Bids for the sale of the Robert Center, cutter yacht, used for 38 years for training work at the Naval Academy, were opened in the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts yesterday.

The American Radiator Co., of New Rochelle, N. Y., submitted the highest bid, offering $428 for the ship. The Robert Center, 86 feet long, was built by Lawley & Sons, of Neponset, Mass., and was presented to the Naval Academy in 1895. It was formerly the yacht Medusa and was given by Mrs. Mary E. Ludlow as a memorial to her son, Robert Center, who was one of the designers of the Vindex, the first iron yacht in this country.

Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of Naval Operations, said yesterday that during the 37 years of the yacht's service at the Naval Academy, several thousand officers, from present admirals to ensigns, have sailed her, and hold a warm attachment for her and her name. A fitting momento of the Robert Center will be preserved at the Naval Academy.

RESERVE BANKS GET $24,374,000 IN GOLD

Metal Continues to Flow in From Hoarders; Use of Notes Limited.

(Associated Press.)

Gold continued to flow into the Treasury during the last week in response to President Roosevelt's order against hoarding, while the Federal Reserve Banks further improved their position.

The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of the banks for the week ended May 17 showed today that $24,374,000 had been added to their gold reserves, making a total of $3,467,706,000.

The country's monetary gold supply remained stationary at $4,313,000,000, leaving approximately $671,000,000 of gold still outstanding, with $331,000,000 of it reported by the Treasury to be in circulation.

Gold May Be Abroad.

Much of the gold is believed to have been taken abroad, but hundreds of millions is thought to be hoarded in this country.

The board reported that circulation of money in the United States had decreased by $40,000,000 for the week, making a total of $5,852,000,000. The total decrease since March 8 amounted to $1,686,000,000.

Federal Reserve currency also decreased another $150,000,000 in the week to a total of $3,299,995,000 while the gold reserves actually back of the circulation of Federal Reserve notes increased $22,000,000 to $2,786,763,000 making a gold ratio back of the currency of more than 82 per cent.

Use of the new Federal Reserve Bank notes also increased from $62,805,000 last week to $74,218,000 this week. Richmond and San Francisco Federal Reserve Districts were the only ones not using any of the new notes authorized under the emergency bank act of last March.

Notes in Circulation.

The notes in circulation in other Federal Reserve districts are: Boston, $12,466,000; New York, $34,443,000; Philadelphia, $5,537,000; Cleveland, $2,996,000; Atlanta, $1,085,000; Chicago, $16,144,000; St. Louis, $39,000; Minneapolis, $497,000; Kansas City, $570,000 and Dallas, $441,000.

The improved condition of the banks was further shown in an increase in their gold ratio to note and deposit liabilities. This amounted to 67.1 per cent, as compared with 45.6 per cent on March 8.

The statement also showed that the Federal Reserve System had not started any expanded open market operations as authorized under the farm relief law. The system's investment in United States Government securities remained stationary for the week at $1,837,000,000.

Mt. Everest Climb By Ruttledge Fails

London (Friday), May 19 (A.P.).—A Daily Mail dispatch from Kalimpong, North Bengal, India, said the British expedition under Hugh Ruttledge, has failed in its first attempt to reach the summit of Mount Everest, world's loftiest peak.

The party established a camp Monday at 27,000 feet altitude and then began a hazardous climb to the summit (29,000 feet) against time, as it was essential to return to the camp before nightfall. Night amid the snows of the peak would be fatal.

What happened to them is as yet unknown. They were still high up on the mountain but after the dangerous, exhausting effort it would be impossible to attempt to reach the peak again before descending some thousands of feet. The weather, which was good when they started the attempt, is now bad.

LOUDERBACK INSISTS UPON FIGHTING BACK

Asks Complete Exoneration; Blocks Lawyers' Move to Seek Dismissal.

(Associated Press.)

A determined fight for "complete exoneration" was ordered yesterday by Federal Judge Harold Louderback, of California, as the answer to five impeachment counts on which he is now being tried by the Senate.

The jurist's decision, which came after House prosecutors had concluded virtually four days of presentation of direct evidence, overrode suggestions of his attorneys that they move for dismissal of the charges.

Immediately the defense began the presentation of its own evidence, intended to tear down the House's indictment and testimony that the judge used his high office improperly in appointing receivers and attorneys for them in cases before him.

Once again the name of W. S. Leake, San Francisco healer, figured in the day's happenings before the prosecution rested its direct evidence. Leake, an intimate of the judge, is en route to Washington now to appear in answer to a Senate warrant.

Sidney Ehrman, of the San Francisco law firm of Heller, Ehrman, White & McAuliffe, a prosecution witness, and Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, brought Leake's name into the record today.

Leake is charged in the House indictment with having recommended to Louderback H. B. Hunter as receiver for the Russell-Colvin Brokerage Co., after the jurist had removed Addison G. Strong. Strong's removal, the House charges, came because he would not agree to John D. Short as his attorney, insisting upon Florence McAuliffe, of Ehrman's firm. The House further charges that through Short, who was appointed attorney by Hunter, Leake received $1,200.

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS FAVORS MILK QUIZ

Citizens Association Scores Prices and Cites Scale in Other Cities.

The investigation of milk prices in Washington, as proposed in a Senate resolution by Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, was indorsed last night at a meeting of the executive committee of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association.

The committee adopted a resolution commending and indorsing the series of articles in The Post which discussed milk prices in Washington and pointed out the disparity between prices here and in other cities.

"It has been demonstrated," the resolution said, "that milk prices are higher here than elsewhere and no reason has been shown for these high prices. Other food commodities have come down while milk still remains at a high peak." The meeting was held at the home of the president, Margaret Hopkins Worrell.

Woman Tramples Pacifists' Placards

Evanston, Ill., May 18 (A.P.).—A woman went to the defense of the Navy today and started the rout of a dozen pacifists, staging a demonstration as Northwestern University's Naval R. O. T. C. passed in review before President Walter Dill Scott and Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius.

The pacifists stood on the edge of the field, carrying placards, "Down With War!" "Abolish this Needless Expense;" "Remember the Paris Peace Pact."

The mother of one of the parading youths tore up a placard and stamped on it in the gutter. After dismissal the reservists made the group surrender their placards and forced them to disperse.

Police Nab Woman In Building Fight

Mrs. Mabel Blundon, of 218 Alleghany avenue, Takoma Park, Md., was arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn out by Building Inspector E. E. Blodgett, of Takoma Park, charging violation of the town's building code. She was taken to Hyattsville Jail and later released to appear Monday at 7 p. m. before Justice of the Peace Leroy Freemire, of Takoma Park.

Mrs. Blundon, a resident of the Prince Georges County section of the town, was refused a permit by the town to build a garage which jutted too far out on the sidewalk, police said, but went to the Prince Georges County commissioners and obtained a county building permit and constructed the garage. WISCONSIN'S HEAD GETS DEATH THREAT

1,000 Milk Strikers Are Quelled by Militiamen; Farmer Is Killed.

Madison, Wis. (Friday), May 19 (U.P.).—A board of arbitration acting for Wisconsin's striking milk farmers early today agreed to call off the week-old strike.

The representatives of the farmers met with Gov. Albert G. Schmedeman and other State officials in the executive's offices to draw up the terms by which the strike would be terminated.

Madison, Wis., May 18 (U.P.).—Gov. Albert G. Schmedeman received a mysterious telephone call tonight threatening his life in connection with the Wisconsin milk war.

A cordon of National Guardsmen was thrown about the State Capitol after the threat was received. Inside the capitol, Gov. Schmedeman and other State officials were conferring in an effort to bring a speedy end to the widespread rioting which already has cost one life indirectly and led to many injuries as well as heavy loss of property.

Leaves Under Guard.

"If you leave the building we'll tunnel you," the unidentified caller told officials in Schmedeman's office in laying down the anonymous ultimatum that unless an agreement was reached tonight the governor or other high officials would be attacked.

Schmedeman, Adjt. Gen. Ralph M. Immell and Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Governors Executive Council, defied the anonymous caller late tonight by leaving the building under heavy guard.

The conference ended in a deadlock.

Militia Quells 1,000.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 18 (A.P.).—A crucial skirmish with 1,000 milk strikers at Appleton, fought with tear gas and clubs, enabled National Guardsmen tonight to control trouble centers of the State and assure most Wisconsin cities a normal supply of milk.

The first fatality of the strike for higher prices occurred near Port Washington when William Dickmann, 53-year-old farmer, tumbled off a truck bringing milk to Milwaukee. The driver, Albert Bradley, drove over his body, reported that Dickmann and a companion threatened to dump his load, and completed his delivery here.

On a 200-mile front along the west shore of Lake Michigan, strikers made stiff resistance to delivery of milk and energetic efforts to push their fight into other sections of the State.

Authorities hoped that the encounter in Appleton, where 300 officers chased a large force of pickets out of town in disorder, has been the "showdown."

In the engagement at Appleton uniformed guardsmen carried pistols, clubs and gas bombs but did not find it necessary to resort to bayonets as they did near Milwaukee yesterday.

State forces held more than 350 farmers as prisoners in the milk war.

Mitchell Earnings For Wife Revealed

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—Edward F. Barrett, a vice president of the National City Bank, the second largest bank in the world, sat in a witness chair in Federal Court today with a ledger open on his knees and read figures showing that from 1922 until the crash in 1929, Charles E. Mitchell helped his wife to make nearly $300,000 by stock transactions.

From his ledger, Barrett, a heavy-set, round-faced man, who began his banking career in 1918 as Mitchell's secretary and, as he rose from one position to another, continued to handle Mrs. Mitchell's business affairs, read entries corroborating evidence contained in letters exchanged between the Mitchells.

Max D. Steuer, Mitchell's chief counsel, read the letters to the jury, which will decide whether the former National City Bank chairman is guilty as charged, of having evaded payment of more than $850,000 in Federal income tax in 1929 and 1930.

CIVIL SERVICE RULE CHANGE IS OPPOSED

apportionment in making discharges," he said. "Preference would have to be given to one factor at the expense of the other. The proposed language is clearly contradictory."

The apportionment clause would hit principally the District, and the over-quota States of Virginia, Maryland, Iowa and Vermont.

Representative Buchanan also leveled a shaft at optional Federal retirement after 30-years service, as proposed in the Senate committee's draft of the bill.

He declared the optional feature would immediately eliminate the most efficient 30-year employes from the service, while continuing the less capable workers.

"The efficient 30-year workers will want to retire at once with a pension and get additional compensation for work outside the Government," he said.

Jeffers Indefinite.

House Civil Service Chairman Lamar Jeffers said last night he did not know when he will call his committee together to consider the Hastings resolution authorizing an investigation to determine the extent to which the Civil Service apportionment act has been violated.

The resolution, introduced yesterday by Representative Hastings (Democrat), Oklahoma, provides for an investigation of the Civil Service Commission and the heads of Government departments for not regarding State apportionment in making appointments to the Federal service.

Representative Hastings charged that "for 20 years the Civil Service Commission has trampled under foot the reapportionment provision." He asked the inquiry be conducted by the House Civil Service Committee.

"HAMILTON" NAME OF BANK AS MERGER OF 5 ADVANCES

stock hereby subscribed for shall be $20 of capital and $5 of the surplus fund, making each share of stock a total subscribed price of $25.

"I agree to pay for the said stock in full upon the acceptance of this subscription and hereto attach my check in full payment.

"It is mutually agreed that in the event the subscription to the said stock shall exceed the amount of $1,000,000 capital and $250,000 surplus, that then and in that event, subscriptions will be prorated among those who have subscribed."

Leaders of the new bank movement said yesterday that as large amounts of stock as possible will be secured from the stockholders of the affected institutions and that depositors of these banks will be asked to subscribe an amount equal to 10 per cent of their balances as at close of business March 3, 1933, the last date these banks were doing an unrestricted banking business.

Example of Functions.

An example of how the latter request can be applied was given. If the new bank is established, 50 per cent of the deposits of the participating banks, or approximately $10,000,000, will be available immediately for depositors. Therefore, a depositor having $1,000 on deposit on March 3, 1933, will have $400 available to him and $100 applicable to stock in the new bank. The depositors' 10 per cent applicable for new stock will be applied to the total of all of their savings deposits.

Inclusion of Northeast Savings Bank into the plan raises the resources of the proposed institution from $11,131,211 to $11,627,098, it was announced yesterday. This figure is carried in the prospectus to stock subscribers in an estimated statement of the financial condition of the proposed bank as at date of opening based upon results of recent examination of the participating banks.

Col. Wade H. Cooper, president, United States Savings Bank, announced yesterday that he has submitted to the Treasury Department a plan for the reopening of that bank independently and is now awaiting action by the Treasury Department.

Col. Cooper said that while the plan called for trusteeing 25 per cent of the assets for the benefit of the depositors, it is admitted that most of them are slow but good and that therefore, the depositors will lose very little, if anything.

The response of depositors to the plan, if approved, will be contained in the following agreement:

"I, the undersigned, hereby give you authority to charge my account not to exceed 25 per cent of my balance in your bank as of the day and date when 75 per cent in amount of your total deposits as shown by the books of your bank, have signed similar agreements, same to be used in restoring the impaired capital structure of your bank, thereby placing it in a position to resume business on a normal basis. I sign this waiver of up to 25 per cent of my account voluntarily and of my own free will and accord and urge and request that this plan for the reopening of said bank be approved by the Treasury Department.

"I also desire to state that I do not want this bank to be placed in liquidation under any circumstances. It is also understood that this order and agreement shall be binding upon me if and when 75 per cent of the total deposits of said bank, excluding public and fiduciary deposits are thus pledged as herein set forth. It is fully understood that all discredited or charged-off assets will be trusteed for the benefit of the depositors waiving the 25 per cent of the deposits and such other depositors as may be bound thereby and entitled to participate therein.

5 PROTESTED BEER LICENSES GRANTED

Congressional Country Club Among Permit Recipients at Rockville.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 8706 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone Shepherd 2363.

The first five protested applications for permits to sell beer in Montgomery County, Md., which were heard by the Maryland State License Bureau, have been granted, Clayton K. Watkins, clerk of the Montgomery County Circuit Court, announced yesterday.

The petitions included three clubs, Congressional Country Club, Columbia Country Club and Rossdhu Castle, as well as two merchants on Brookeville road, Chevy Chase, Leon Bondareff and Isidor Suser. They were opposed by a group of residents of Chevy Chase, headed by Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Democratic Women's Law Enforcement League, at a hearing in Rockville Tuesday.

The board held that the protests against any sale of beer in the county advanced by the residents was not properly a disqualifying plea and should have been presented to the State Legislature and not to the board, which has no authority to pass on the advisability of 3.2 beer being sold. It went even further in the Congressional Club case and stated that the protestants did not even live in the same election district as the club.

Members of the board sat yesterday at Rockville for hearing of five more cases, one of which was postponed, that of Matthew L. Kohlhoss, of Poolesville, who is represented by Capt. Joseph C. Cissel. The postponement was granted to John Oxley, attorney for the complainants.

The cases heard were Mrs. Southey Carroll, proprietor of Carroll's Wayside Inn, Burtonsville, who is represented by Senator Joseph L. Donovan and Capt. Cissel, with George H. Lamar appearing for the protestants; Joseph R. Lovett, Bethesda, who was represented by E. N. Cherrington; J. Moses Edlavitch, 5515 Georgia avenue, Silver Spring, who was represented by Capt. Cissel, and Morris Gurevich, of Travilah, who appeared without counsel.

The board expects to complete hearing the remaining nine objected applications on Tuesday at 11 a. m. at the courthouse in Rockville. Members of the board are Frank P. Bratten, Pocomoke City, chairman; W. Clinton McSherry, Frederick, and L. Franklin Purnell, Ocean City.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

THERE are Federal employes who find time after their official duties to take an interest in civic enterprises, as performed by local women's clubs. Tuesday the Federation of Women's Clubs of the District of Columbia held its annual luncheon at the Mayflower. The program was broadcast over a Nation-wide network. Mrs. Harvey Wiley presided at the speakers' table, where many notable guests were seated. Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, who was guest of honor, made an appealing talk, cautioning all women that as we buy intelligently within our means at the same time we should remember that there are manufacturers paying women and children as little as 2 cents an hour for their labor in order to put cheap clothing on the market.

Miss Emma Redell, prima donna of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, and Justin Lawrie, musical director of the Foundry Methodist Church, concluded the delightful program.

There were 20 members present from the Woodridge Book Club. Among those who attended were Mrs. Lee J. Runyan and Miss Mary R. Runyan(*), clerk, Administration Division, Bureau of Internal Revenue.

POSTAGE stamps, common carriers ordinarily, had one of their gala days yesterday. On a stage apart from specially set scenery and in an atmosphere nevertheless dramatic, star performers enacted their roles. At the Washington Hoover Airport a plane took off at 10:45 a. m., and the pilot headed the ship for Chicago. This plane was making philatelic history as it carried the first shipment of the commemorative one and 3-cent stamps of the Century of Progress Exposition—1,000,000 copies of each denomination.

The incident may have been judged by onlookers as "just another flight" had it not been for the fact that dignity added luster to the occasion by the presence of representative officials of the postal department. Leading in stature and gracefulness was James A. Farley, Postmaster General.

Other accredited postal officials stood to the fore—Joseph C. Mahoney, first assistant postmaster general; Isaac Gregg and Michael L. Eidness, jr., custodian of stamps. Alvin W. Hill, director, and John Smith, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, superintended the safe transit of the stamps from the truck to the plane. Mrs. Myrtle C. Shaughnessy, who will be the philatelic contact official with the public at the special sales agency, exposition ground, was also present. She wore a blue ensemble and the color of her dress stood in contrast with the navy blue of the plane. Mrs. Shaughnessy left with the stamp consignment for Chicago.

THOMAS F. DOLAN, president, N. A. P. O. C., anticipating enactment of Independence Offices appropriation bill, asks Postmaster Farley for due consideration of efficiency and regard for domestic responsibilities and financial obligations in selecting 30-year retirees. He also suggests that all 30-year employes first be accorded the right to retire, thus avoiding a minimum of hardship and possible injustice.

No. 12 hole, par 4, of 423 yards, Indian Spring, where the Federal Diary first annual golf tournament will be held Thursday is the best hole on the course, says George Diffenbaugh.

A drive the least bit off line will get the player into plenty of trouble, says George. "Guarding the green across the fairway is a large trap," he explains. "This hole plays much longer than it appears. A spoon or brassie for the second shot is required."

Anne Howe says

If Jim Farley wants to see more stamps bought and cancelled, I suggest he adopt this slogan: "You'll hear more from your friends if you'll write them more" as a cancellation stamp.

Virginia Property Tax Defaults Gain

Richmond, Va., May 18 (A.P.).—Replying to an inquiry from Gov. Pollard, State Tax Commissioner C. H. Morrissett today said delinquency in county real estate and tangible personal property tax payments has constantly increased since 1924, through periods of prosperity and depression alike.

The commissioner reported an increase in the deliquency every year, beginning with 4.65 per cent in 1924 and climbing to 17.64 in 1932 in the counties. He explained that prior to segregation in 1926 his figures included also the local tax on intangible property.

The figures were compiled from treasurers' records. City records were given for only the years 1931 and 1932, showing an increase in deliquency from 10.69 per cent in 1931 to 11.70 per cent in 1932.

State to Construct Sea Wall at Beach

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 18.—A substantial improvement to the beach front of North Beach, Calvert County, a summer resort on Chesapeake Bay, where many Washingtonians have cottages, was assured today when the State Roads Commission awarded the contract for construction of a sea wall 1,266 feet in extent. The wall is to prevent further erosion of the beach, as well as to protect the foundation of a State highway that flanks the shore line.

The work will cost $19,000, and the contract was awarded to Smith Brothers, of Galesville, Anne Arundel County. Interlocking steel sheet pilings will be used, according to terms of the contract, the sheets being treated with copper to prevent corrosion.

The State Roads Commission has previously provided for similar safeguards at Solomons Island, Point Lookout, Scotland Beach and other points along the Chesapeake.

Too Much Sun Called Conducive to Baldness

Chicago, May 18 (A.P.).—If you want to keep your hair, don't go collegiate all at once. Too much shining sun may produce a shining dome. So said Paul A. Thomas, a trichologist—scalp specialist to most of us.

"A short period of exposure on the head," Thomas said, "is excellent, but hot sun on it all day long dooms the hair treatment business in the autumn. We've pampered our thatches under bowlers too long to expect them to come out and be he-men overnight."

Police Recruit Rejected; Has 2 Teeth Too Few

St. Paul, Minn., May 18 (A.P.).—Two too few teeth barred Leo Crumley today from becoming a policeman.

Story took the controls after Griffin collapsed. He brought the plane to a safe landing here.

PARLEYS AT GENEVA RECONVENE TODAY

Delegates Are Optimistic of Breaking Deadlock on Disarming.

Geneva, May 18 (A.P.).—Delegates of the leading nations hastened to return to Geneva tonight for the hopeful resumption tomorrow of efforts to break the disarmament deadlock in the light of pronouncements by President Roosevelt and Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

The bold initiative of the American President in appealing directly to heads of states for immediate action to secure political peace and open the way for economic recovery is welcomed here as opening the door to possible agreement for a genuine reduction of fighting weapons.

The conciliatory pronouncement by the Nazi chancellor coming immediately after the message from Washington, increased feeling of optimism that the arms conference now is facing another great opportunity to reach its long-awaited objective.

Paris, May 18 (A.P.).—Direct personal discussions between Premier Daladier of France and Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany was being urged tonight by friends of Daladier as a means of seeking settlement of the disarmament question.

Although official confirmation was lacking that any such meeting was in prospect, the lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies were busy with discussions of the possibilities.

100 Off-Sale Beer Licenses Granted

The Beverage Permits Board experienced a new rush of applicants yesterday afternoon as it reconsidered requests for off-sale permits in residential zones. An even 100 temporary licenses, most of them off-sale, were granted.

The large number of applicants resulted from the ruling of Justice Adkins in District Supreme Court earlier in the week that the District Commissioners should not deny a beverage permit to a business etsablishment in a residential zone despite the nonconforming clause of the District zoning act.

Progress was reported in the investigation of temporary permit holders preparatory to the issuance of annual licenses, which is expected to get under way by June 1.

U. S. MOVES TO PEG CURRENCY OF WORLD

moment of the presence here of Prime Minister MacDonald.

This was the basis at which British authorities wanted to see the American dollar stabilized, but responsible American authorities at once decried the possibility of such an inferior stabilization.

Agrarian Conference.

This level was fixed less than a fortnight after the United States had gone off the gold standard and the dollar was still pretty much in the throes of uncertainty. Since that time, however, the dollar has improved on the international exchanges. On Wednesday the American dollar in relation to the pound sterling has gained .09 cent and had improved from $3.88 to $3.91.

This problem of stabilization will not be made effective until the delegates to the London Conference have had a chance to review the entire fiduciary situation. In the meantime, however, a cloud has appeared on the horizon of the conference in the shape of the agrarian conference to meet in Bucharest June 3, ten days in advance of the London meeting.

Roumanian Minister Charles A. Davila called at the Department of State yesterday with his financial counselor, George Boncesco, to review with the Secretary of State and the American experts the preparatory steps that have been taken for the conference. At that time he reminded Secretary Hull of the forthcoming conference in his capital which will bring together the countries of the little entente—Poland, Roumania, Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia, together with Hungary, Lithuania and Bulgaria.

Tariff Problems Included.

At the Bucharest conference the nations will discues the grain problems common to their needs and will extend their conversations to cover the subjects of tariffs, tariff quotas and restrictions. The fact that these other nations are meeting in Bucharest is believed to be a protest gesture against their exclusion from the meeting of the big four nations in Geneva just now where the United States, Argentina, Canada and Australia are discussing plans for control and restriction of crop production.

The other nations of Europe now meeting by themselves were eliminated from the Geneva get-together.

Mr. Davila also reiterated to Mr. Hull the desire of his country to meet all its intergovernmental debt obligations of the past as well as those contracted in the future. A small country like his has a national budget of $100,000,000 for 20,000,000 people and still takes care of its crushing war debt obligations to the United States.

When revision of debts finally comes under discussion by this Government, Roumania will have available some very concrete arguments for a liberal concession on her obligations.

Eight More Rulers Laud Roosevelt for Message

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt yesterday received pleasing acknowledgement of his message for world peace from the rulers of eight more nations—Germany, Spain, Italy, Nicaragua, Chile, Venezuela, Uruguay and Costa Rica.

President von Hindenberg, of Germany, said:

"I acknowledge with sincere thanks receipt of your message telegraphed to me.

"This declaration, in which you show the world the way to eliminate the international crisis, has met with hearty approval throughout Germany.

"The statement, which the German Reich chancellor made yesterday with the unanimous agreement of the German Reichstag, proves that Germany is decided to cooperate unselfishly in overcoming the political and economic difficulties of the present moment."

Death Box Maniac Slain

Man With Infernal Machine Attached to Body Riddled by Oklahoma City Police After He Shoots Down One of His Captors.

Oklahoma City, May 18 (A.P.).—An apparently crazed man who threatened four policemen with a mysterious infernal machine slung from his shoulder, was shot to death in a police car in downtown Oklahoma City today after he had dangerously wounded Patrolman John H. Beasley with a pistol.

Relatives identified the dead man as J. E. Ferguson, 45, a carpenter, of Seminole.

The infernal machine was found to contain 24 sticks of dynamite. Authorities said if it had been exploded downtown a score or more persons probably would have been killed.

Ferguson's relatives said he had told them the mysterious box was his invention for separating eggs. He had been unemployed recently.

The man drew a pistol and started firing, police said, when Beasley, who was sitting beside him in the car, attempted to take the weapon from him. The three other policemen quickly trained a fusillade of bullets on Ferguson.

Officers said Ferguson had hailed the police car and entered it on the pretense he was weak from hunger and wanted to sit down. Then, they said, he pointed to his infernal contraption, a small black box, and threatened to set it off. His left hand and wrist were inside the box.

"All I have to do is pull my hand out of it and we'll all blow up together," the man was quoted as saying. "I don't like policemen anyway."

INTERSTATE CHORUS CLOSES ITS SEASON

Invitation Concert Attracts Capacity Audience at Continental Hall.

The Interstate Male Chorus of 50 brought its thirteenth season to a close last evening with an invitation concert which taxed the capacity of Memorial Continental Hall. Clyde B. Aitchison conducted, with Robert L. Feuerstein and Gertrude Mockbee assisting as accompanists.

The chorus presented a program of wide appeal, from folk songs to Wagnerian opera and the Russian liturgy. The powerful chorus and finale from "Die Meistersinger" opened the concert, with a series of lighter numbers following, including the setting of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's "The Birth of the Opal," by Neidlinger, which was as colorful as its theme suggests, and then grew in dignity to the magificent "Credo," by Gretchaninoff, in which Charles Wood chanted the solo against an organ-like a capella choral support.

Pursuant to its policy of presenting yonger singers as its soloists, the chorus introduced Virginia Sellars, a young soprano with a pleasing manner and voice, who has been heard over local radio stations. She sang a group of familiar soprano arias, with good voice and style, and with the chorus, Ethelbert Nevin's charming "Wynken, Blynken and Nod."

Especially worthy of mention was the choral setting of Secchi's "Love Me or Not," for the barytone section of the choir, with a sustained vocal background, and the noble "Break, Break, Break!" by John Hyatt Brewer, upon Tennyson's familiar poem.

During the season the men of the Interstate Commerce Commission who make up the chorus have given two invitation concerts, joined with the Symphony Orchestra of the United States Marine Band in a program of music by Oregon composers, and sang at the memorial services in honor of the late President Coolidge before a joint session of the House and Senate, and furnished a section of the chorus for the memorial exercises of the House of Representatives.

Report on Sewage Plant Due Today

The District Commissioners today probably will consider a report from the Engineer Department on the moot proposal of constructing a municipal sewage disposal plant to prevent pollution of the Potomac River, but it is virtually certain that no move to build such a plant will be started at this time.

An investigation was instituted some time ago by Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, after the United States Public Health Service had published the findings of a survery of the Potomac River. This survey showed that the river is so polluted as to be unhealthy for bathing.

The local inquiry has shown that construction of a sewage disposal plant would cost between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000, and that it would not put an end to the river's pollution, as the streams emptying into the river are polluted by the thickly inhabited areas through which they flow. The high cost of the project makes it impractical at this time.

D. C. Flood Control Program Advanced

Maj. D. H. Gillette, engineer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, yesterday laid before the commission a flood control program for the District of Columbia.

Protection against rising waters from the Potomac River is provided in the plan by a scheme to raise the low ground between the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument and the placing of 8 feet of dirt near the municipal swimming pool.

In reporting on the status of funds appropriated for the commission Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the commission, told members of the commission that $3,100,000 of the $16,000,000 authorized under the Capper-Cramton act has now been spent.

DICTATORSHIP BRIEF, DR. PERGLER WARNS

Unitarian Laymen's League Told Freedom Scorns Autocratic Rule.

Dictatorships and autocracies are not permanently possible because the free spirit of the modern individual can not be permanently fettered, Dr. Charles Pergler, director of graduate studies at National University, declared last night in an address on "Whither European Democracy?" at the annual meeting of the Washington Chapter of the Unitarian Laymen's League at All Soul's Unitarian Church.

Dr. Pergler asserted that autocratic or oligarchic governmental methods have struck root temporarily, "Only in countries that are either backward or lack adequate political experience."

"Under modern conditions," Dr. Pergler concluded, "in well developed and especially highly industrialized states, I do not believe dictatorships and autocracies are permanently possible. The free spirit of the modern individual can not be permanently fettered."

During his discussion of democratic principles of government, Dr. Pergler, who is a former minister from Czechoslovakia to the United States, defended debate in legislative halls even when that debate approaches filibustering.

"Too much debate is better than none at all," Dr. Pergler said. "It is a method of influencing, formulating and creating public opinion. Informed national consciousness is the source of authority in a modern democratic national state."

Mrs. Shawhan Heads Washington-Lee Group

Mrs. Joseph E. Shawhan was elected president of the Washington-Lee High School Parent-Teacher Association last night. Mrs. Herbert Marcey was named first vice president; Mrs. C. E. Wismer, second vice president; Mrs. Martha Rauh, third vice president; Miss Lena Wolfe, recording secretary; Miss Marian Snethle, corresponding secretary; Lloyd McCord, treasurer, and Mrs. Millicent Maxey, historian.

The association will award medals to three honor students at the graduation exercises June 13.

Capper Asks More Funds for Crippled

More adequate appropriation for the conduct of the two schools for crippled children in the District of Columbia was urged by Senator Arthur N. Capper, of Kansas, in a radio talk on the Community Radio Forum period last night. Senator Capper was introduced by Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, who spoke of the great interest in crippled children shown by the Kansan as demonstrated by the organization and help given the Capper Fund for Crippled Children in the senator's home town of Topeka.

Senator Capper said:

"The problem of the crippled child presents a challenge to the people of the District of Columbia who are doing well in this respect, but who should do much better; to the people of the United States, to Congress and to the administrative agencies of the United States, and to the legislatures and administrations of the various States and cities of our country. Every child in our Nation is entitled so far as is possible to the ancient prescription of a sound mind in a sound body."

Montana State Society Will Dance Tomorrow

Senators Wheeler and Ericson and Representatives J. P. Monahan and Roy E. Ayres, all of Montana, and Harry B. Mitchell, newly appointed Civil Service Commissioner, will be speakers and guests of honor tomorrow night at the annual banquet of the Montana State Society to be held at the Hamilton Hotel.

Following the banquet, dancing will be in order to the strains of a well-known orchestra. Officials announced that reservations may be obtained at the Hamilton or by calling Adams 6067.

Boy, 11, Accused of Starting $1,000,000 Fire in Maine

Auburn, Me., May 18 (A.P.).—Police tonight ordered Renaud Cote, 11-year-old Auburn boy, into court tomorrow as a result of their investigation into suspected incendiarism in Monday's fire, which destroyed more than $1,000,000 in property and made 1,500 persons homeless here.

The authorities withheld details of their questioning of young Cote, but Fred M. Kirlin, of New York, special investigator for the National Board of Underwriters, said the boy had confessed he set the initial blaze which grew into the disastrous conflagration.

The fire, which razed 239 buildings in a congested tenement district, came eight days after an alleged incendiary started a $2,000,000 fire in Ellsworth. Norman Moore, 25-year-old farm hand, is awaiting grand jury action in that city on an arson charge.

The boy is one of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Arsene Cote, whose home, one of the first destroyed, was near the Pontbriand Garage in which the fire started.

Authorities said the boy was mentally deficient and was known to them to have started several small fires in the past.

The boy tonight was in the custody of his father, who was ordered to present him in court tomorrow.

Investigation of the arson rumors had been pushed by police, members of the sheriff's department and special investigators for the past three days.

COMMISSION BACKS UTILITY BILL CHANGE

Amendments Intended to Block Prolonged Litigation Over Values.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday submitted to Congress several proposed amendments to the District public utility act, intended to block prolonged litigation, particularly in utility valuations, and to empower the commission to fix depression rates on property of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

Noticeably absent was an amendment which would have authorized the commission to pass upon all extensions and retirements of local utilities under a liberal interpretation of "convenience and necessity" powers. The commission desired to have this amendment included with the others and was supported in its position by William A. Roberts, special assistant counsel, but Corporation Counsel William W. Bride, commission counsel, advised against it and finally won the argument.

Appeal Prevented.

Under the modifications proposed utilities would be prevented from appealing to the District Supreme Court from "any purely administrative order of the Public Utilities Commission or from an order fixing or ascertaining the value of the property of the public utility."

Other restrictions would be placed upon the courts in other appeals. These would require the court to accept the commission's findings of fact wherever they are "based upon substantial evidence;" prevent the court from hearing new evidence except through the commission; bar the reversal of a commission order so long as the utilities body acts within its statutory jurisdiction and without impairment of constitutional rghts; limit the court to an affirmation or reversal of a commission order; require that three judges pass upon a plea for an injunction designed to restrain the commission from making an order effective, and reduce the period in which appeals may be filed to 60 days.

No appeal would be permitted until after an application for a rehearing has been either denied or the cause reconsidered by the commission, and the cost of all litigation would be assessed against the utility involved.

Unreasonable Delay Cited.

"The experience of the past twenty years has shown that the present form of appellate procedure has resulted in undue and unreasonable delays and has not kept pace with the progress in administrative law as evidenced by the decisions of the courts themselves," Mr. Roberts stated in his memorandum.

An appendix attached to the memorandum points out that the Capital Traction Co. case consumed almost thirteen years and that of the Potomac Electric Power Co. case almost ten years.

The amendment covering telephone depreciation rates states that the commission "shall ascertain and fix proper and adequate rates of depreciation of the property located in the District of Columbia of each public utility," and outlines how these rates are to be fixed.

Should these amendments be enacted into law at this session, the pending telephone rate case and the valuation of the properties of the Washington and Georgetown Gas Light companies will assume entirely different aspects. The commission's authority will no longer be overshadowed by a supercommission in the District Supreme Court save in purely judicial questions.

'Happy Days' Published For Forestry Workers

Carrying out the analogy between the reforestation mobilization against unemployment and the war-time mobilization, the staff which produced "The Stars and Stripes" during the war yesterday published the first issue of "Happy Days," the authorized weekly newspaper of the Civilian Conservation Corps.

The first issue is of 12 tabloid pages and without advertising. Melvin Ryder is editor and Ray Hoyt managing editor. "Happy Days," published in Washington, will be distributed in reforestation camps throughout the country. A feature of the publication is a cartoon series by A. A. Wallgren, cartoonist of "The Stars and Stripes," during the war.

EVANGELICAL SYNOD OPENS CONFERENCE

90 Delegates From 4 States Attending Sessions at Concordia Church.

The forty-eighth annual conference of the Atlantic District of the Evangelical Synod of North America was opened yesterday at 8 p. m. at Concordia Lutheran Evangelical Church. The 90 delegates were welcomed by H. F. Dunkhorst, president of the church. Response was given by the Rev. F. C. Rueggeberg, of Baltimore, president of the Atlantic District. The Rev. Paul M. Schmidt, of Baltimore, presided.

The principal address was given by Dr. S. D. Press, president of Eden Theological Seminary, and a member of the board of directors, on the subject, "Christ in the World's Need." He emphasized particularly that the world in its present condition needs "nothing more than the power of God as revealed in Christ."

Today's session will be opened by an address by Dr. Rufus Weaver, lecturer on philosophy of religion at American University, who will speak on "Rethinking Christianity." His address will be followed in the evening by Dr. Peter Ainslie, of the Christian Temple of Baltimore. His topic will be "The Righteousness of Christ and Social Injustice."

The first business session will be held today when reports of various committees are read and resolutions are drawn. Among important business to be taken up will be action on a plan of union between the Reformed Church in the United States and the Evangelical Synod of North America.

The delegates are from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. The conference will end Monday night.

City Heads Asked To Provide Relief

Resolutions suggesting that the Board of Commissioners take necessary steps to obtain funds for relief of needy citizens, either by seeking further appropriations of District funds from Congress, by obtaining a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, or by obtaining assistance from the Federal Government under the Wagner Bill, were adopted by the Cosmopolitan Club meeting at the Carlton Hotel yesterday. The resolutions were offered by William M. King, chairman of the civic relations committee.

Thomas P. Littlepage gave a short talk on the renovize Washington campaign sponsored by the Board of Trade.

Edward A. Rule, a member of the renovize committee, estimated that if $5,000,000 of work is pladged here, about $3,350,000 of that will go to labor, thus relieving the charities of a decided burden.

100 Knights Columbus To Begin 3 Days' Retreat

More than 100 members of the Knights of Columbus will leave Washington today for Manresa-on-the-Severn, where they will spend three days at the Jesuit retreat house. Automobiles will leave the Knights of Columbus clubhouse at 5 p. m. The return trip will be made Monday after attendance at mass.

Included in the party will be 75 members of the Fourth Degree under direction of Arthur B. J. Williamson, worthy master. A group of 25 from Washington Council will will be headed by Deputy Grand Knight Michael J. Racioppi and Advocate Alfred A. McGarrachy.

BONUS GROUP HEAD FOR FOREST WORK

officially understood that the 2,500 bonus marchers will be welcomed in the reforestation ranks.

If they don't choose to enter the forestry brigades, it is learned, then it will be "out" for those who disdain the administration's proffer.

Albert G. Sellers, "labor" member of the Veterans' National Liaison Committee, again last night told the men of his opposition to the reforestation offer, characterizing it as a move to beat down wage scales. He was cheered on his stand, but despite this response it was noted at the camp yesterday that many of the men are willing to try out the reforestation work.

A score of the "right wing" leaders met with Washington friends last night at 1348 Fairmont street, temporary headquarters. Plans were made to move a small group of women and children away from Fort Hunt today to quarters obtained for them in the city.

It was after this meeting that Thomas came out with his reforestation stand. Most of the men at the meeting concurred in his declaration. Included in the meeting was Eddie McConnell, who was Gen. John J. Pershing's soldier chauffeur in war days in France.

The House District Committee will make another effort at 10:30 this morning to reach an agreement on the Public Utilities Commission's bill to merge the Washington Gas Light Co. with the Georgetown Gas Light Co.

TOO MUCH DICTATORSHIP.

General agreement upon the principles of the industrial recovery bill was effected before it was introduced. But the details of the bill are still open to controversy. As Congress begins to study the measure it is very evident that it must be revised to meet constitutional and practical objections.

The general purpose of the "industrial recovery" section of the bill is to enable industry to cooperate for mutual advancement within trade groups. But as it is now written the bill goes much farther than that. It would establish a Government dictatorship over private enterprise in some ways more drastic than the Black-Perkins bill. Numerous concessions have been made to the extremists who believe that the Government should fix minimum wages and hours of labor and regulate production by executive decree.

Trade groups would be allowed to adopt "codes of fair competition" for their mutual benefit. Such codes would become effective when approved by the President. Before giving his approval the President would be required to make certain that the group presenting the code is truly representative of the industry; that it freely admits to membership all concerns engaged in that particular industry; that the code is fair to competitors, consumers and to employes; that it will not promote monopoly, and that it does not discriminate against small business enterprises. If industrial or trade codes conform to these requirements they would be declared "standards of fair competition," and any departure therefrom would be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $500 for each offense.

In cases where an industrial group should fail to agree upon a code the President would be authorized to provide one and to impose it upon the group without its consent. This idea leads to the grant of licensing power under which the President could put any concern out of business if it should refuse to abide by the code he had prescribed. Authority for the President to prescribe "maximum hours of labor, minimum rates of pay" and other working conditions that he may consider necessary to reduce unemployment and stimulate industry is a prerogative very different from the power of approving agreements voluntarily entered into by industrial groups. The first is a logical form of cooperative endeavor. The second is a form of industrial dictatorship that is abhorrent to the American people.

There is grave danger that if the Government should undertake to force industry to abide by rules formulated in Washington it will kill enterprise and create more unemployment than now exists. This threat of dictatorship is repugnant to the central purpose of the measure, which is to encourage cooperation in industry.

The section giving the President power to require licenses of any concern carrying on business in or affecting interstate commerce seems to be unconstitutional. An Oklahoma statute requiring ice companies to take out licenses to do business was recently invalidated by the Supreme Court on the ground that it deprived an enterprise of its constitutional right to engage in the ice business, which is not affected with a public interest. To overcome this objection it appears that Congress would have to convince the Supreme Court that all industries are public utilities. Such a contention is absurd.

It is unfortunate that a measure which is sound in its central purpose should be encumbered by proposals to create dictatorial powers over private business. The measure will be facilitated if the House ways and means committee will strike out these objectionable features at the outset. Industrial dictatorship from Washington would be intolerable, and would cause many an enterprise to shut up shop in disgust.

INSURANCE COOPERATION.

The successful employment of the provisions of the farm mortgage act is made more certain by the meeting of the representatives of more than thirty life insurance companies with Henry Morgenthau, Jr., governor of the Farm Credit Administration. These companies, which are extensive holders of farm mortgages throughout the United States, pledge their cooperation with the Government. They control about two billions of the more than eight billions of farm trusts.

While the companies reserve the right to determine the extent to which they will exchange their mortgage holdings for a reduced amount of principal in bonds bearing a lower rate of interest, a matter which must be decided by the interests of their policyholders, the desire was expressed to work with the Government agency in this matter to the fullest extent possible. The insurance men feel that a large proportion of the mortgages placed by the companies are so conservative that they will not be offered for bond exchange, but will be eventually paid out on the original basis.

Provision for this mortgage exchange is contained in the general farm relief measure recently passed. The $2,000,000,000 made available to the Land Banks is to be issued in 4 per cent bonds. When a farmer finds his mortgage too burdensome and the holder of it feels his security is no longer ample, the holder may exchange his mortgage for these bonds on the basis of 50 per cent of the appraised normal value of the land plus 20 per cent of the insured improvements. The mortgage holder who takes bonds suffers some reduction in both principal and interest, but his interest is guaranteed by the Government.

THE MUSCLE SHOALS BOOM.

President Roosevelt sounds a timely note of warning to investors to beware of the wiles of real estate sharks at Muscle Shoals and thereabouts. The population of Florence and other neighborhoods went mad with joy when the news was flashed that the President had signed the Muscle Shoals bill. Doubtless thrifty speculators have already laid out miles of glamorous entrepots of commerce and culture, to be vitalized by the Tennessee Valley Authority, with its power to issue bonds, build dams and power lines, plant forests, reclaim lands, and in all ways transform that region into a combination of the Garden of Eden and a Greater Pittsburgh.

The real estate speculator is the serpent in the garden. Unless the innocent investor is on guard he will be bitten. The vast cities envisioned by promoters will not spring up over night. Eventually there will be considerable employment in the Valley, but if the fortune hunter goes there now, with a slender purse, he is likely to become a public charge before he will find work. Probably the local population can furnish all the labor needed for the time being.

The development of the Tennessee Valley as contemplated by the act must be preceded by organization and planning. The actual construction work will be delayed, and its development at best will be tedious. If villages and towns should appear as a result of the Government's efforts they will have to adjust themselves to slow development conditions or perish as premature mushroom communities.

It would be well for the Postoffice Department to be on the lookout for mail frauds in connection with the booming of real estate ventures. The Tennessee Valley enterprise is an ideal vehicle for joy-riding by sharpers who seek to take advantage of gullible investors.

DEBTS AND CREDIT.

Undue emphasis has been placed on the burdens of debt arising from the depression. Some imaginative economists have shown conclusively that the national debt now exceeds the national wealth, which suggests that the American people as a whole should go into bankruptcy and start again from scratch. But since the logical deduction from that idea is preposterous, no one gave any heed to it.

Dr. Roland P. Falkner, chief statistician of the National Industrial Conference Board, has set for himself the task of correcting fallacies concerning the present burden of debt. In the first place, he says, it is a mistake to assume that all debtors have been affected by the change in prices. A considerable part of the total debt consists of short term obligations that are incurred in the ordinary course of business. These are paid off within 30 to 90 days with no appreciable difficulties because of a slow decline of prices. Only long term debts, such as bonds and mortgages, are seriously affected by a lower price level.

Another frequent mistake is the assumption that the entire burden of long-term debts must be paid off by the production of commodities at their present prices. Dr. Falkner estimates corporate debts in the United States at $36,000,000,000. But only $350,000,000 of that sum becomes payable in 1933. Assuming that the depression will not last forever, what is pictured as an intolerable burden of debt is only a temporary hardship. As Dr. Falkner puts it: "Debt, far from being a giant ogre, gnawing at the vitals of the economic structure, as so frequently represented, is only a diminutive bogey man."

Debt is merely the dark side of credit. Money can not be borrowed unless there are willing lenders. Credit can not be extended unless debt is created. It is a treacherous habit of the American people to praise credit and condemn debt, without realizing that they are two different forms of the same situation. If existing debts are burdensome, the fault lies in the abuse of credit back in 1927-29. So long as business was expanding and credit was blossoming into prosperity there was little thought of the vast debts that were being accumulated. Now the country has moved to the dark side of those transactions and sees only the debts.

Obviously this situation can not be remedied now. The time for application of the remedy was five years ago, but the people did not want credit curtailed then. Debts were created and they must be paid, if not by one group then by another. Some day the public may learn that it is futile to condemn debt and praise credit. Many statesmen and governments have already learned that it is futile to try to cure maladjustments growing out of the abuse of credit by running farther into debt.

NO GOLD CORNER HERE.

Before the United States went off the gold standard critics loved to picture Uncle Sam as a villain who had secured a corner on the world's gold and upset international finance. Events of last year when the United States was nearly driven off the gold standard by the drainage of gold to Europe opened the eyes of most of these critics. Now that the Government has actually forbidden gold exports to conserve the American supply of basic money the absurdity of this claim stands out in bold relief. But some critics are still blind to it.

It is amazing to find Owen D. Young stumbling into this pitfall. Mr. Young told an audience in Philadelphia that the desire of Americans to collect their debts has upset the equilibrium of the world. His remarkable venture into the imaginative stratosphere is summed up in the following sentence:

> So, having refused their goods (in payment of the war debts), we took their gold until we ruined the currency and banking systems of the world, including our own, until international exchanges and trade were paralyzed.

Mr. Young offers no facts to support this statement. He would find them difficult to obtain. It is a matter of fact that the monetary gold stocks of European countries have increased faster since the war than have the gold stocks of this country. In 1919, the year after the war, the United States had $3,129,000,000 in gold. By 1925, when most of the debt agreements were negotiated and some countries resumed their payments to America, the gold supply in this country had increased to $4,381,000,000. By 1929, when the depression began, the American gold supply had declined to $4,282,000,000. Since the beginning of 1932 the United States gold stocks have ranged somewhat below $4,000,000,000. Where is Mr. Young's evidence of a drainage of gold into the United States by means of the war debts?

During most of this period the gold supply of the world has been rapidly increasing. In 1919 the world had only $6,794,000,000 in gold in governmental treasuries and central banks. By 1929 the world's monetary gold stocks had increased to $10,305,000,000, or 52 per cent. During the same period the gold stocks of the United States increased only 40 per cent. In the light of these facts it is absurd to talk of the United States upsetting the monetary systems of the world by requiring excessive payments to this country in gold.

Except for a brief period in 1931 when capital came to the United States for safekeeping, this country has not held an abnormal share of the world's gold. At present about one-third of the world's monetary gold is in this country, but the United States does close to one-half of the business of the entire world. Calculated on the basis of population, wealth, and actual production of basic commodities the American gold supply is shown to be about normal.

France has far more gold in proportion to her wealth and commercial needs than has the United States. Mr. Young helped France to get a corner on Europe's gold by engineering the Young plan, under which Germany undertook to pay "unconditional" reparations for the restoration of devastated territory and "conditional" reparations to enable the French, British, Italian and Belgian governments to pay their debts to American taxpayers without drawing upon their own resources. In other words, he helped to preserve a system through which the allied governments took everything they could squeeze out of Germany while paying almost nothing to the United States. This process resulted in a piling up of gold in France. If a reasonable part of that gold had been transferred to the United States, as it should have been, it would have been distributed throughout the world by American tourists and traders. When Mr. Young comes along at this late hour and tries to blame the American government for the disturbed financial status of Europe, it looks as if he were trying to cover up his own disservice to his country in formulating the Young plan.

Some of the foreign potentates were not so alarmed when they learned that the Roosevelt message was prepaid.

France is cool toward the Roosevelt message, having heard that Germany receives it cordially.

GEN. MA IN BERLIN

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

One diminutive Chinese general fought the Japanese all the way across Manchuria in the winter of 1931-1932. He never won a battle of any consequence, but he irritated the Japanese almost beyond endurance. When the Manchurian conquest was complete this little general dissimulated and accepted command of the Manchukuo army with Japan's blessing. As soon as he could arrange matters the general led his army into revolt, and the Japanese had to wage a considerable war to crush once more the man who declined to stay crushed.

It was with satisfaction that the Japanese announced the finding of the general's corpse in a squalid mud hut in northern Manchuria. They declared—all that was left of his former magnificence was an opium pipe and a handful of gold coins. This was last July.

The general's name was Ma, which made him peculiarly attractive in English-speaking lands. Ma Chan Shan was his full name. He remained officially dead for several months, and then the Japanese had to concede his resurrection, for they were trying to persuade the Russian government to hand him over as a criminal or at least intern him. The Russians did neither, for in the absence of any declaration of belligerency they could recognize no state of war. And again Ma disappeared from the news, not dead this time, but apparently permanently missing.

Now, of all places, Berlin is the scene of his latest emergence. With 3 other generals and about 50 lesser officers this small indomitable man appears in the Hitlerized capital and officially gives out statements that he is on the way back to China to heckle the Japanese again. He does not say he will win the war; but he does promise to keep on fighting, and insists with solemn assurance that China will win in the end.

Ma has already become a kind of mythical personage. No one knows what he will do next. But if the Japanese ever get their hands on him there will be no further emergences of the man who made them fight two wars and double-crossed them in between.

Use the Plank and Save the Bridge.

POST HASTE.

That exuberant European idea that Uncle Sam is going to guarantee the peace of the world infers about 110 per cent too much.

If you favor the recognition of Russia it is easy to convince yourself that the President recognized Russia by sending his note to Moscow.

Omnibussing public works, taxation, industrial control and suspension of antitrust laws, all in one bill, saves time and rubber-stamp roll calls.

Of course, industry is to control itself, but if it doesn't the President will be authorized to fix "maximum hours of labor, minimum rates of pay and other working conditions."

The bonus vets were obliged to state their generous demands for the farmers and unemployed in very general terms, as they could locate nothing that has not already been enacted or on the way.

It is remarkable in how many ways and in how many languages European peace can be discussed without saying that the real necessity is for France and Germany to patch it up between them.

As was to be expected from the first lady Cabinet member, Miss Perkins gracefully acknowledges that the big industry bill is as effective as the Black 30-hour bill with her amendments, which will now be sidetracked.

France, which enjoys the greatest fear of invasion, and Japan, which fearlessly employs it, are the lukewarm supporters of the Roosevelt peace proposals.

Viscount Ishii arrives in the United States with a fine assortment of Oriental smoke screens which he will display in Washington.

If the President's loud speaker gave Europe an exaggerated idea of Uncle Sam as a world gendarme, it will be Ambassador Davis' part today to tune out the static.

But if 54 nations think one F. D. R. is done with them in just one message, Congress can tell them different.

WHEN NELLIE READS.

When Nellie sits to read a book
I notice that she'll turn to look
The last few pages o'er to see
If happy will the ending be.
She likes to know before she starts
That love unites two troubled hearts
Despite the trials they must face
At last a wedding must take place.

I say: "My dear, to know the close
Destroys the charm the book bestows.
'Tis better far that you should take
The volume for the story's sake,
And wonder as each page you read
If that brave hero can succeed,
And if that heroine at last
Will overlook his dreadful past.

"The joy of reading is to share
The burdens fiction people bear;
To take what comes of good and bad;
To grieve with them when they are sad;
Deplore the cruelty and pride
Which two fine characters divide,
But interest in them is dead
If that last chapter first you've read.

"Life would be dull for me and you
If we the future really knew.
If we were sure beyond all doubt
Just how our stories would work out
If we could skim the pages o'er
To what the future holds in store
'Twould spoil it all!" Says Nellie: "So?
Well, just the same I'd like to know."

Big Boys Quit Bullying Teacher When Others Despised Them for It.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

FIRST, kill the snake.

Physicians, hunters and natives of snake-infested regions seldom agree on the proper treatment for snake-bite, but all of them suggest the same obvious elementary precaution: "First, kill the snake that bit you."

For years the chief concern of science has been to find and overcome the cause of disease.

When any disagreeable or dangerous condition threatens a community, the first thought of those possessed of sound intelligence is to remove the cause.

That course is so obviously right and necessary that the dullest mind should see the need and the sanity of it.

Yet the people of civilized nations, enduring poverty and hopeless misery as an aftermath of the great war—as people have endured these things following every great war in history—still make no effort to prevent or destroy the cause of their suffering. They don't kill the snake.

They groan under the burden of war's inevitable penalties. They are bankrupt and jobless and ragged and hungry because of war's waste and destruction. Yet they still think in terms of warfare and thus make further wars inevitable.

Statesmen talk of plans and agreements to reduce armaments and make treaties to preserve the peace, but all of these efforts are futile.

These rules of national conduct are laws, and all human experience has shown that laws are without power or effect unless they are supported by public opinion.

Andrew Jackson's moher said to him: "Never sue for slander. Settle them cases yourself." To her contemporaries that seemed brave and noble advice. But now public opinion has changed, and the mother who advised her son to kill his critics would seem a mad barbarian.

Norway and Denmark, recently contending for the east coast of Greenland, had every usual justification for an appeal to arms. But public opinion required arbitration, and the decision of alien arbiter was accepted by the losers without thought of war.

Marching young men out to kill one another because diplomats lose their tempers is no more sane or necessary than arming clerks to make war on a rival merchant.

When the common people realize that, and with one accord condemn and abominate war as they now condemn murder by individuals, warfare will be as dead as witchcraft. But there is no way to end dueling while the people brag on duelists.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Will Gold Contracts Stand Up?

Kansas City Star.

The question of whether gold contracts will stand up if the dollar is devalued is coming increasingly to the front. Billions of dollars in bonds are payable in gold "of the present standard of weight and fineness." That means in gold dollars each weighing 25.8 grains, .9 fine. If the gold content of the dollar should be reduced by 25 per cent, could these bonds be paid in the new dollars, or would the debtor have to pay on the basis of the old dollar, making good the difference between the new dollar and the old?

It often is assumed that the Constitution forbids the impairment of contracts and so the gold contracts would be upheld. But the Constitutional provision applies only to States. The Supreme Court has held it does not apply to the Federal Government.

In the legal tender cases of 1872 the court pointed out that Congress frequently had enacted legislation impairing contracts, and that such action was Constitutional. The bankruptcy act was cited as a conspicuous example.

Trade and the Tariff Truce.

Tariffs are not the only influence upon trade. The rate of exchange operates as an auxiliary tariff. And if the United States dollar and the pound sterling persist in fluctuating in inverse directions, it is possible that a change in tariffs might become necessary to maintain the relative trading position.

Are Governments Sane?

Detroit News.

Ever since the allies stated in a note to Germany, June 16, 1919, that the limitation of German armament in the Versailles Treaty was to be regarded as one of the first steps toward general reduction of armaments, there have been conferences to achieve that end. The first assembly of the League of Nations appointed a commission; by the time the fourth assembly met a treaty of mutual assistance had been drafted, which no power would accept. In 1924 the famous Geneva Protocol was framed, which made war an international crime. It never became effective. In 1926 a commission to prepare the way for a disarmament conference met, and continued to meet off and on until December, 1930, when a draft convention was adopted. Another year passed with nothing doing, and finally the disarmament conference met in February, 1932. It is still in session, and apparently has accomplished just as much as it ever will accomplish, that is to say—nothing.

THE ONCE OVER

DIARY OF A GERMAN BOOKWORM.

Monday—Went down to a big bonfire and borrowed a number of books for light reading. The librarian warned me to return them by Wednesday, as they will need the fuel by that time.

• • • •

Tuesday—Had another row with the wife. She has no literary appreciations and is forever chiding me for my absorption in the classics. She says I must stop drawing books from Hitler conflagrations, as they get ashes all over the rugs. To pacify her I promised to think up some sort of ash stand for best sellers.

Wednesday—It is becoming quite difficult to get any really good books on philosophy or art. The police watch the fires so carefully. But I hope to obtain some shortly, as I have a friend in the fire department who is in a position to pick up some really good things. Yesterday he managed to get hold of a Suderman in its third burning.

Thursday—This is one of the brightest days of my life. Hoseman Hoffmeister, of Engine Company No. 8, let me have two volumes by Prof. Einstein, which, thanks to a special type of fireproofing, were practically undamaged after six hours in one of the biggest bonfires of the week. He said he could have picked up a set of Marx the other day, only the hose burst just as he was getting it cool enough to handle.

• • • •

Friday—If I had a poker and a set of fireplace tongs I know where I could get two new books by Remarque.

• • • •

Saturday—It is really a problem to know where to keep my books. Hitler and his book inspectors, few of whom can read or write, come around frequently and peer over my shoulder to see what I am reading. They can't tell what it is, of course, but if I appear to enjoy it they order it burned at once.

They search the house for any books that look large enough to be dangerous. I don't know what to do. I am thinking seriously of having my library kept in a built-in fireplace.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Observer Pays His Respects to Congress—Prefers Do-Something Dictator to Do-Nothing Congress.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Talk about Government waste! The most extravagant luxury this country permits itself in these days of reduction in expenditures is 531 rubber-stamp indorsers on a pay roll at $8,500 per annum. To this add another million or two for the sacred cause of nepotism.

Figure it out—$8,000,000 to hire a crowd of men whose greatest contribution to the welfare of the Nation lies in keeping quiet and permitting one man with more intelligence than their combined brain power to handle the Nation's affairs.

Representative Government? The Congress of the United States does not represent any one but itself. When something must be done, and quickly, they scurry like rats to their holes and dump the problem into the lap of the Chief Executive. They are only interested in perpetuating their own existence.

Dictatorship? Well, we couldn't be any worse off. If Congress is willing to surrender the problem of an emergency to the President, why should he, when things are running fairly smoothly, give the country back to them to get all balled up again?

As a Nation, we may prosper in spite of all the efforts of those whom we pay to legislate for us.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE choral group of the Arts Club of Washington will give a program tonight to be broadcast at 9 o'clock by WMAL.

The choral group, which consists of 40 mixed voices, has reached a high state of perfection under the expert direction of Otto Torney Simon, for so many years leader of the Motet Choral Society in Washington.

The Arts Club program for tonight will begin with the 150th Psalm by Cesar Franck and the "Hallelujah Chorus" by Beethoven. There will follow four choruses of the romantic school by distinguished English composers, "Spanish Serenade," by Elgar; "On Himalay" and "Winter Scene," by Bantock, and "To Zante," by Holbrooke.

"The poems of the romantic school are especially lovely. Mr. Simon comments: "Maybe you will give the poets credit—Longfellow wrote the words for 'Spanish Serenade,' Shelley for 'On Himalay' and Alfred Hayes for 'Winter Scene.' The words of 'To Zante' are by Edgar Allen Poe."

Katherine Morrison will be at the piano tonight.

Will Rogers explained to the radio audience: "I had a clock last Sunday in New York and the thing didn't go off . . . Tonight, I got two alarm clocks. I am the only radio man that carries his own spare—alarm clock."

Mary Livingston's imitation of Mae West creeps into the continuity of the Chevrolet program (WRC, 9 p. m.) with Jack Benny, in a manner that invariably gets "a rise" out of the studio audience.

Mary's inflections bring applause and laughter from the studio visitors.

CONNIE MACK (real name Cornelius MacGillicuddy), known to baseball fans the world over as the veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, will appear with Edwin C. Hill on the "Inside Story" program over WJSV tonight at 8:30 p. m. Mack has directed the destinies of the Philadelphia team longer than any one has supervised any team in organized baseball. During an informal conversation with Hill, Mack has promised to reveal a generally unknown incident which first brought him into Nation-wide prominence.

Amelia Earhart Putnam, the first woman to make a solo flight over the Atlantic, will be guest speaker during the Cities Service Concert, over WRC at 7 o'clock tonight, the eve of the first anniversary of her famous flight.

THE dance melodies of Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians, who are now filling a six-week engagement in Chicago after a vaudeville and dance tour, have been resumed on a three-a-week schedule of sustaining broadcasts over the Columbia network, in addition to their Wednesday evening sponsored programs.

The Lombardo music is now heard from the Dells in Chicago at 10:30 p. m., Tuesdays, and at 11 p. m., Thursdays and Sunday nights.

As George Burns and Gracie Allen now are playing a vaudeville engagement in Chicago, the comedy pair will be in the same studio with the band for the Robert Burns broadcast on Wednesday, May 24. Although Burns and Allen and the Lombardo outfit have appeared on this program each week, this is the first time they will have been together in a studio since January. For several months the dumbcrackers broadcast from Hollywood, where they made several movies, while the music was cued in from New York. Then, when Burns and Allen returned to Manhattan, the Lombardos had already departed on their barnstorming tour. Now that they will be reunited this Wednesday, one can almost hear Gracie pop: "Isn't this a small world, George?"

Guy will bring his three brothers and the balance of the band back to New York early in July, when they return to the Pavilion Royale for a summer's engagement, during which they will continue their present schedule of sustaining broadcasts.

A medley of songs with a smile, including "Smiles," "I Wake Up Smiling" and "Smile, Darn You, Smile," will add gayety to the program featuring Phil Spitalny's vocal and instrumental ensemble tonight at 7 o'clock over WMAL.

Music from "The Cat and the Fiddle" will open the program, which also will include the favorite, "Limehouse Blues," a group of popular Italian songs, "Down the Old Back Road" and several Friml melodies.

A PROGRAM will be broadcast this afternoon at 4:45 o'clock over WMAL in the interest of Friendship House, 324 Virginia avenue southeast, which will celebrate its twenty-ninth birthday next week.

The history of Friendship House will be told by Mrs. William L. Corbin. There will be songs by the Sing Song Glee Club, Norma White, Lucky Friday Boys' Club and Talbot Mallory.

When Clare Boothe Brokaw, managing editor of Vanity Fair, is heard over WMAL at 4 o'clock this afternoon, she will tell about a three-cornered set-to in the studios of Edmund Steichen, famous photographer, between that artist of the camera, Marlene Deitrich and Josef von Sternberg.

She also will tell some interesting facts about the cartoonist Covarrubias, and will include Herbert Bayard Swope and Paul Morand in her discussion.

Milton C. Cross, veteran announcer, was talking about the early days of broadcasting. He recalled his experience with a stage comic who insisted upon singing so loud that his voice penetrated beyond the walls of the studio. "The secret of good broadcasting is to whisper into the mike," he told the actor after his selection. "That's all right for your regular acts," rejoined the star, "but I want to be heard out of town."

Molasses: How come, big boy, you is all bunged up from de weddin'?

January: Dey throwed ol' shoes at de bride an' groom an' Ah done got hit.

Molasses: Ol' shoes couldn't cause sich a mutillification as you is.

January: See you. But dese ol' shoes had feet in 'em.

SENATOR ROB WAGNER, of New York, will explain the new "public works and industry control bill" (WJSV, 9:45 p. m.

The prize poems in the recent contest held by the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs will be read by their authors over Station WMAL this morning at 11 o'clock.

The poems and their authors in the order of award are: "The Lincoln Memorial," by Miss Anna H. Priestley; "Look Back, America," by Edith Mirick, and "Seek Him That Maketh the Seven Stars and Orion," by Mrs. Emily Maxwell Maddox.

"TAURUS."

IF May 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 5 p. m. to 6:15 p. m., from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. and from 10:45 p. m. to 11:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. and from 1:40 p. m. to 2:25 p. m.

The child born on this May 19 will be a "live wire," witty and never any trouble to have about. He will show himself to be a versatile little one and will be alive and alert.

If May 19 is the date of your birth you may have some difficulty in finding yourself. Once, however, you have definitely established your goal, you will carry on through all hardships to its ultimate attainment. One of your most outstanding qualities is tenacity of purpose; your determination to succeed will carry you over many a rough spot. You should be able to handle duties of an executive nature; you have a faculty for handling large numbers of workers and for controlling them with the least amount of friction.

Born on May 19, you have many friends, but they are not of the finer sort. Being a strong character, you seem to attract people weaker than yourself as friends. This seems to be the result of the fact that invariably you seek to be the dominant one in any friendship.

Successful people born on May 19:

John Hopkins, philanthropist.

George W. Whistler, civil engineer.

Felix K. Zollicoffer, journalist and politician.

Henry W. Ravenel, botanist.

James O. Broadhead, lawyer and diplomat.

Richard I. Dodge, soldier and author.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

New York.—In an obscure hall in upper Manhattan a dance marathon is wearily winding its way into the final fatigued hours. Couples, so dead on their feet they have to hold each other up, slowly push themselves around the floor.

As I glanced in on them late the other night, one of the dancers seemed vaguely familiar. A short, stockily built fellow, he was walking around with the pace of a snail. The program identified him as Joie Ray.

It was a surprise to see this little man, once one of the world's fastest human beings, engaged in a long-distance dance contest with a small cash prize for the winner.

Ready! Set! Go!

My thoughts went back to a sunny afternoon ten years ago. The champion track men of all America were gathered at a meet at a Midwestern college. Harold Osborne was there and he broke his high jump record that day.

Joie Ray was there, too, although it was thought he was out of the contest because he had injured an ankle. But he taped up the battered joint and with that handicap went out to speed ahead of the rest of the field like a rabbit losing a pack of tired dogs.

Perhaps it was that recollection made it seem ironic to me that he should be now going endlessly, endlessly around a dance floor.

The dance marathon also was the fate of Patrician Salmon. Remember her?—the little, auburn-haired actress who was playing in a tent stock company at Shelby, Mont., when Dempsey fought Gibbons. Metropolitan reporters covering that event wrote such raves about her that Flo Ziegfeld brought her East to star in his "Follies."

It brought a lot of publicity for the "Follies," but Ziegfeld didn't sign her again. She faded from the Broadway picture for awhile, and then turned up in a dance marathon at the Madison Square Garden a few years ago. I wonder where she is now?

Meanderer Tells How to Cook Meats and Asparagus.

FEATURES FOR WOMEN

Culbertson Explains How Broker Used the Squeeze Play.

The Meanderer

Finds Suggestions for May Dinner Parties; Gives Tips on Cooking Asparagus Tips and List of Ready-Cooked Meats.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

"What would you advise the hostess to select for a guest dinner, now that the weather is warmer?" the Meanderer asked one of the best meat marketers in Washington. "Hind quarter of spring lamb," was his prompt reply. If the meat is to make at least ten servings, then a crown roast of lamb is recommended. Jumbo squabs are popular choices, costing not more than 70 cents apiece. Five-pound capons are a nice choice in this particular market.

Now that iced tea is again taking its place on the menu, the Meanderer would list two teas highly recommended on this week's market tour. The first is a blend offered by an old, well-established grocery store for 30 cents a half pound. "We sell more of this 30-cent package of tea—our most inexpensive blend—than we do of any other in the store," a saleswoman told the Meanderer. Another highly recommended blend is that from a chain store, for which they ask 19 cents a half pound.

Mint leaves go first into the iced-tea glass in one family. Then the hot tea is poured on the mint leaves, ice is added, and the glass is filled with water.

Blended orange and grapefruit juice in cans is a new product to interest those who like fruit juices for breakfast, or who like to keep fruit juice in the icebox for use in summer beverages. This blended fruit juice sells two cans for 19 cents.

Three cans of a standard brand of tomato juice containing 12½ ounces each sell for 15 cents in a chain store. The usual offer is two cans for 15 cents, but the third can is free with the purchase of two.

The "salad twins"—a head of lettuce and a jar of good mayonnaise—sell for 23 cents this week in a chain store.

New potatoes took a decline in price this week, resulting in a week-end offer in a chain store of 10 pounds for 29 cents.

Large, sweet California cherries are among the newest arrivals in one of the best stands in an open market the Meanderer visits. Huckleberries and blackberries have joined strawberries in adding variety to the fruits offered. Fresh pineapples have grown reasonable in price, costing only about 20 cents this week-end.

Diced carrots are selling 15-ounce cans for 5 cents in a chain store.

Tie each serving of asparagus with a string so that there is little chance of the stalks breaking as they are served. Most housewives tie the entire bunch and then separate it when ready for serving. A manager of a big grocery gives this tip on asparagus tips. Asparagus of the better fresh grade sells for about 25 cents a bunch in this grocery. Canned asparagus tips, thick and tender, are but 10 cents a can in the same food shop.

Peanut oil is winning itself a place on food shelves in Washington. It has been demonstrated for use in frying, in salad dressing recipes, even for shortening in cakes, in several department stores. The peanut taste is not discernible in the oil as many suspect it might be.

"Shoud wine be chilled for serving?" is a frequent question now that legal wines are often on the marketing list. Red wine may be served at room temperature, or may be chilled, an authority says. All white wines should be chilled. Another pointer on the new wines is that sediment in the bottom of the bottle is not a sign of inferior wine. Quite the contrary, for sediment is natural to wine and the rarest of old wines are certain to have sediment. The Meanderer's "Etiquette of Serving Wine with Dinners" secured from a maitre d'hotel of much importance, is ready for those who send a self-addressed stamped envelope for it. The "Seven Menus for Beer Suppers" also is available on request, if the self-addressed stamped envelope accompanies the request.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

What she would wear for traveling, in the way of a topcoat, a jacketed suit, and a slip-on sweater over a linen blouse. (A Dah-ray idea.)

HAVE you heard of linen velvets? It's hard to explain—but there it is, and Worth features it for evening wraps. The new silk linen is lovely, too, and absolutely uncrushable, as well as perfectly expensive . . . but who cares when a thing is really lovely.

Worth is all silvered up this season—silver black is only one example of it. Silver tissue is so well known from this house that it is hardly worth mentioning again—but the fact that everything is sheened or dotted or draped or covered with silver, is interesting.

• • • •

How is your voice? Lovely and low, gentle but musically strong, and with a laugh running through it like silver trout reflecting the sun in a still, dark pool?

• • • •

And a lacquered silver satin, also from Worth! The metal is used as a thread in the models made of this material. Now that we have gone off the gold standard—might that be a "worth-y" gesture?

• • • •

Have you noticed that there is less epidermis than ever displayed for this summer? Less, and more—because while there is actually less, actually bare—there is positively more, semi-bare.

Meaning sheer and more sheer and more of it in materials! You wear lo-o-o-o-ong sleeves, lo-o-o-ong skirts, hi-i-i-i-i necks—and all the time you show lots of arm and bosom and limbs, because your dress is made of sheer material. And oh, so cool and airy! And the materials can be cottons or silks, laces or even wools, and still be as gossamere as a cobweb. Or if you want a satin or taffeta in the dress, then you have a skirt or maybe bodice insertions of something very sheer, and retain the transparent look that is so completely the summer mode.

• • • •

Remember, you can put our leaflets away until you do need the things designed in them. Also if you don't sew yourself, or haven't time—your dressmaker will greatly appreciate these leaflets because the best dressmaker in the world still isn't Dah-ray, you know, ahem, ahem! That's me ahemming, and that's what I have been doing to a lot of collars and cuffs lately, since I discovered that that 4-year-old Paris gown needed nothing but $4 worth of rebleach dyeing—and $4 worth of new collars and cuffs to make me look re-rue-de-la-paix. This week's leaflet is on collar and cuff designs, lots of them, all unusual, all interesting. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dah-ray Department of The Washington Post for it, and, as I said, keep it until you do need collars and cuffs.

• • • •

I sketched for you today what I should have worn for that airplane trip. What a trip, what a trip! Swell trip, too; but what with climbing in and out of seaplane, biplanes, airplanes and plain planes—not to mention a little walking between planes . . . The outfit I selected for you today shows a sports topcoat in the accepted warm, woolly, light-weight style, with straight and comfy lines, and no collar. The suit is not the same material, but matches in color. The pull-over sweater is a chic, dark color and can be worn under or without the jacket—in fact, the "climate" variations are infinite, with an outfit like this—and do you need a thermometer for a trip like the one I just had! From the icy-covered Andes to the palm tree-ridden jungle port—well, you guess. Anyhow, there is the perfect traveling outfit, I think.

Au revoir.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

634.

A STOCKBROKER'S SQUEEZE.

THERE was a time when members of the New York Stock Exchange were so busy executing, buying and selling orders that they had little time and perhaps less inclination for the fascination of the game of Bridge. However, Bridge is an intellectual pastime, good enough to test anyone's skill, and recently, in a rubber game against some of the most expert players in New York, Mr. George U. Harris, a member of the stock exchange, gave his partner and opponents a thrill by his unusual application of the squeeze situation to the play of a Grand-Slam contract. The squeeze was developed through an automatic Vienna Coup caused by the opening lead. It was made all the more complex in that the obvious manner of playing the hand would lose: the squeeze, instead of the apparent play of ruffing a loser, furnished the solution of the problem.

The hand was:

South, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

	♠ Q 9 6 4 3 ♡ A 10 5 ◇ A ♣ Q J 10 2
♠ 8 5 2 ♡ 4 2 ◇ J 10 9 5 2 ♣ 7 6 5	N W E S	♠ 7 ♡ Q J 9 8 6 ◇ K 8 6 4 3 ♣ 9 3
	♠ A K J 10 ♡ K 7 3 ◇ Q 7 ♣ A K 8 4

Mr. Harris.

The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
4NT(1)	Pass	5NT(2)	Pass
7♠(3)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—As partner has made an immediate jump to game, South, with two aces, the king of the bid suit and lots of values in addition, is justified in accepting the mild slam suggestion that the immediate raise to game implies.

2—This response to the Four-Five No-trump convention is forced. After four notrump is bid, when a game contract has previously been reached, the responding hand, holding two aces, must bid five notrump.

3—Only the slightest of overbids. I might state it in this way: "t would be a bad Grand-Slam bid under the old scoring laws. Under the new scoring laws, with the greatly increased premium, the chance is justified.

Mr. Harris, when the Dummy went down, after the opening lead of the Knave of diamonds, was faced with an unusual playing situation, which he handled, however, with masterly skill. Three rounds of trumps were taken, drawing the adverse trumps, then four rounds of clubs, the last being won in the Dummy, followed by the lead of the remaining spades in the Dummy. Mr. Harris knew that East held the king of diamonds and probably five hearts, as he had followed suit twice on clubs and had held only one spade. If his holding was the king of diamonds and five hearts, then he was squeezed. In the process of discarding, East had parted with two hearts and three diamonds. The 9 of spades, led to the tenth trick, effectually encompased his defeat. To discard the king of diamonds would establish the queen in the closed hand. To discard the heart also would give the Declarer his contract for all the tricks.

The reader will observe that the thoughtless, ordinary way of playing this hand must result in its defeat. Most players would think they were playing very fine Bridge if, after winning the ace of diamonds, they later ruffed the queen of diamonds in the Dummy. This, however, would give them but 12 tricks, as the squeeze, developed by the line of play chosen by Mr. Harris, could not now develop. The essence of the success of the Vienna Coup lies in the possession of the second-best card in the suit in either the closed hand or the Dummy. It was only retaining a card which he could have ruffed that the Grand Slam was made.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

If you, as South, were playing this hand at four spades, and the opening lead were a club how should the rest of the play be planned to realize the greatest number of tricks?

East, Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ Q J 7 ♡ K 10 4 ◇ Q 9 8 6 3 ♣ 8 7
♠ 10 8 ♡ 6 5 3 ◇ J 10 7 4 ♣ 9 5 4 3	N W E S	♠ K 6 ♡ A J 8 2 ◇ 5 2 ♣ K Q J 6 2
	♠ A 9 5 4 3 2 ♡ Q 9 7 ◇ A K ♣ A 10

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

HAZARDS OF THE OLD.

THOSE in the midperiods of life have no reason to be chesty about the general improvement in health. They are standing on the sidewalk, watching the procession go by, and that gets them nowhere. The improvement about which we boast so much is in the health of babies and children not very long out of babyhood. The diseases that once were disastrous but are now unimportant are the various forms of children's contagion, such as scarlet fever, diphtheria, smallpox and the diarrheas.

In a chapter devoted to vitality in his book, "Social Trends," Sydenstricker makes the point that the health of persons over 50 years, so far from improving, is getting a little worse from decade to decade. Tuberculosis is the only important disease affecting that group that is coming under control. Heart disease, Bright's disease, diabetes, apoplexy and cancer—their great enemies—are constantly gaining on them. It has been 50 years since we got rid of yellow fever and more than that since cholera ceased to be a menace, and in that half century nothing has been done in a big way for any disease of major importance affecting men and women of middle age and beyond except tuberculosis.

Furthermore, developing the general theme, trends, Sydenstricker predicts that the long-continued drop in the general mortality rate will be discontinued before long unless some methods for improving the health of middle-aged persons is discovered.

Unfortunately, most of the things that we know how to do require the long-continued interest and attention of the individual himself, and we are not good along that line. We make the most headway when we get a good George to do it, and then let him.

For instance, the cancers that appear in areas that can be observed can be prevented, and, when not prevented, can be cured. That requires observation and some alertness. There should be no mouth cancers.

Probably three-fourths of the diabetes is preventable by change in the dietary and eating habits. We do not know as much about some of the others as we need to. But it is a safe assertion that a better regard for our vital organs in the years of vigor and strength would decrease their disorders in the evening of life.

It is still true that the grasshopper that sings all summer has difficulty in negotiating winter.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

The Toddler's Blocks.

WHEN the 2 or 3-year-old is given a set of blocks his parents frequently are disappointed because he builds nothing with them. They conclude that he does not like blocks or that he is still too young to play with them properly.

They are wrong. The 2-year-old, left to his own devices, will play with his blocks to his own great profit and satisfaction.

If they are small (he should have all sizes, large, medium and small), he will enjoy carrying them about in his hands or in a basket, piling them into his wagon, taking them from one place to dump them in another, and then gathering them up to carry them back again.

Somewhat larger blocks he likes to push about, pretending they are trains or boats or automobiles, or perhaps just pushing them without, apparently, pretending anything. Or he piles them irregularly one on top of the other.

The adult looking on may call this a "tower," but the child does not usually bother to call it anything at all, merely enjoying his activity without concern for what it might mean.

All sorts of odds and ends of wood, sandpapered smooth and perhaps painted in bright colors with enamel are also favorites. What the toddler does with them would be hard to describe, but certainly he keeps busy with them for many minutes at a time, learning, by the way, a good deal about relative sizes and weights and about shapes and colors.

Presbyterians to Call For Marriage Notices

Fifth Avenue Fashions

A printed crepe silk in dark blue and white is so exceedingly popular for general daytime wear as is in this charmingly slender model.

The deep V-shape of the bodice at the front combines with the panel effect of the skirt to give height to the figure.

It has a certain amount of distinction that you'll love, yet it is thoroughly practical. The deep vest is white crepe.

Numberless other materials are equally suited to this easily made model as plain crepe silk, thin wool and crepe silk novelties, tweedy cottons, &c.

Style No. 2958 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust.

Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39-inch material, with ¼ yard of 35-inch contrasting. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Our new Fashion Magazine for spring contains all of the new spring styles for women, misses and children, as well as interesting illustrated articles—beauty hints, hairdressing, how to reduce sensibly, poise as an aid to fashion, dressmaking hints, &c.

Arrived at the tomb, the president of the senior class, Miss Julia Davis, of Winston-Salem, N. Railway Stocks Fail to Halt Fractional Loss in Trading Leaders Join Decline in Lighter Turnover of 4,121,910 Shares.

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—Stocks wobbled today, although rail shares endeavored to carry the price level higher.

Steel, farm implement, utility and the recently buoyant "wet" stocks tended lower as profits were accepted. Net losses ranged from fractions to more than a point for United States Steel, Bethlehem, National Steel, Case, Harvester, Consolidated Gas, North American, Western Union, Owens-Illinois, National Distillers, Crown Cork and United States Industrial Alcohol. American Telephone, down 2 at the worst, closed with a small gain. Allied Chemical, strong all day, advanced better than 2 points. American Can rallied on ticker reports of improving business, while International Cement, National Cash Register and Celanese strengthened about 1 to 2.

Rails derived considerable support from forecasts that car loadings last week had exceeded those of the corresponding 1932 period. Wall Street was pleased by the increasing traffic on Eastern lines, which had previously been lagging under a year ago, taking this to mean that manufactured goods were being moved in larger volume. Extreme gains for the carriers ranged from 1 to 4 points. These were toned down a bit, but Delaware & Hudson, Louisville & Nashville, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Railway, Illinois Central and Chicago & North Western were up 1 to 2½ net. Trading aggregated 4,121,910 shares.

Discussion as to what taxes are to be levied to carry the big expenditure which the Government is planning for its public works industrial control program naturally drew wide attention and the final decision is being awaited eagerly. It was noted that some congressional leaders were predicting there would be no sales tax.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Chancellor Hitler's speech created a favorable impression on the Stock Exchange and the market developed cheerfulness. Further advances were recorded in German bonds, still-edged securities and industrials. However, recessions occurred later in these issues, due to profit taking. Transatlantic issues eased in sympathy with Wall street and the market closed irregular.

Paris—Quotations on the bourse sagged when buyers who anticipated the moderate tone of Chancellor Hitler's speech took their profits and withdrew on the eve of the chamber debate as to the government's general policy. The closing was irregular.

Berlin—Trading on the boerse was cheerful, but prices closed slightly weaker.

BOND PRICES HIGHER IN SPITE OF SELLING

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—Although the bond market was somewhat jumbled today, as profit takers became quite active in a number of the recent speculative favorites, prices generally managed to emerge a trifle higher.

The average for 60 domestic corporate loans edged up one-tenth of a point to 73.2, another new high mark for the year. Sales totaled $15,509,000, par value.

While some industrial specialties were taken in hand for substantial advances the higher grade utilities steadied.

Broker and Dealer Loans Increased by $54,000,000

(Associated Press.)

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending May 17 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday as $618,000,000, an increase of $54,000,000 as compared to the preceding week.

The loans for the week ended May 18, 1932, were $414,000,000. The distribution of the loans over the period dealt with in the board's report was:

	May 17	May 10	May 18 1932

GOODS MARKET.

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—Sales of cotton goods for the week are more closely approximating the increased rate of production. Retailers are buying wash goods and summer dresses steadily. Rayon prices are very firm and tending upward. Burlaps are steady with spots at a premium above future delivery goods. Wool goods are selling steadily in moderate lots.

FLOUR MARKETS.

PURE BRAN—12.50@13.00.

CURB RALLY TRIMS EARLY PRICE DROPS

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—The Curb Market snapped back in the final minutes of trading today, to erase most of the worst effects of a rather sharp reaction that set in at the beginning of the final hour. Considerable irregularity was evident throughout the session.

Utilities, a bit heavy during the forenoon, closed narrowly irregular.

Oils were quiet most of the day and closed slightly higher. Mining shares improved fractionally while investment holding corporations were barely steady. Transfers totaled 528,000 shares against a total of 612,000 yesterday.

TRADE TRENDS.

(Associated Press.)

Rayon—Orders on producers' books for July delivery are said to be the heaviest placed for that month in several years. Very little yarn is available for spot delivery.

Lead—Demand is less active than a few weeks ago. Prices are unchanged at 3.65 cents a pound, New York, and 3.52½ cents, East St. Louis.

Fine chemicals—Tincture of iodine has been advanced, establishing the market at $3 a gallon, in barrels, against a previous quotation of $2.25.

Linseed oil—Present quiet in the market is said by dealers to be due to the fact that many firms have contracted for their needs. Prices are unchanged.

Copper—Dealers believe that any expansion in demand from present levels would bring another price advance in the near future. Sentiment in the industry is more optimistic, though it is generally recognized that current heavy stocks raise an obstacle to rapid improvement.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for May 16 were $3,956,383.76; expenditures, $13,138,710.14; balance, $410,824,013.62. Customs duties for 16 days of May were $11,265,093.67.

WHEAT VALUES SINK ON HEAVIER SELLING

Securities Declines Blamed for Drop; Other Grains Join Slump.

Chicago, May 18 (A.P.).—Lively tumbles in grain prices late today accompanied heavy selling of wheat, largely on orders from sources East.

Temporary weakness of securities did much to unsettle confidence of grain holders. Trading in grain was ended before stock market recoveries took place. Corn showed stubborn resistance, but yielded to sympathy with wheat action.

Wheat closed unsteady at the day's bottom figures, 1½ to 2 cents below yesterday's finish; corn, ⅛ to ¾ down; oats, ⅛ to ½ off, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to an equal gain.

Favorable Crop Outlook.

Contributing to the late downward trend of wheat were reports of a favorable outlook for the 1933 domestic crop of spring wheat, with seeding now practically completed. Another disturbing factor was that Eastern selling wheat came largely from interests that earlier were in the buying side. This selling found the wheat market vulnerable to offerings, and for the time being without any aggressive speculative buying power.

Stop-loss selling orders in wheat were dislodged, and the market ignored word that 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been taken for shipment overseas. Wheat traders also gave little heed to the fact that rye quotations today had jumped to fresh high records for the season. The advance of rye was attributed to operations of spreaders who were selling corn against purchases of rye.

Relative strength of the corn market resulted from persistent wet weather, a handicap in getting corn land prepared for planting. Oats tagged after corn.

Provisions were swayed largely by changes in hog values and in grains.

COTTON PRICES CUT ON REALIZING DRIVES

July Closes at 8.58 With General Market Down 13 to 15 Points.

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—Cotton declined 60 to 75 cents a bale today under a renewal of realizing or liquidation influenced by the action of the wheat and stock markets.

July contracts closed at 8.58. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 13 to 15 points. The opening was 4 to 8 points higher on steady Liverpool cables and reports of continued large sales of cotton goods.

The advance brought in some Southern selling or hedging and offerings increased later on the easier tone of the stock and grain markets. Some stop orders were uncovered on the decline, but many contracts were taken out of the market by the trade or commission house buyers.

October Rallies Moderately.

After selling off to 8.73 for October, and 8.88 for December or 20 to 22 points net lower prices rallied moderately on covering. Closing quotations were 6 to 8 points up from the lowest on the more active positions.

Except for absence of adequate rains in the Southwest, weather conditions were considered more favorable and, according to some of the reports reaching here, the crop has made rather better progress recently.

Houses with continental connections were credited with buying early but selling later, while Liverpool was among the early sellers.

There were reports that 23,000 bales of the so-called Red Cross cotton had been sold out of the local stock yesterday and that bids were being asked on Monday for an additional lot of 40,000 bales.

Liverpool cables reported that buying in that market had been supplied by hedging and realizing. Exports today, 26,473, making 6,950,606 so far this season. Port receipts, 11,636. United States port stocks, 4,059,992.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH CELEBRATES BIRTH

Bishop Freeman Speaks at Broad Creek Parish's 210th Anniversary.

"People, in the majority of cases, are today thinking in terms of the present and future and forgetting the heritage of the past," Dr. James Freeman, Bishop of Washington, yesterday told the crowds that assembled to celebrate the 210th anniversary of St. John's Episcopal Church at Broad Creek, Md.

On a grassy knoll above the historic Potomac River and opposite Mount Vernon, Episcopalians from far and near gathered to pay homage to the mother church of all Washington and Maryland churches.

As the bishop stressed the importance of foundations, both in church and State, he included a call to hearken to the fruitful days of this mother church. He referred to the days when George Washington was rowed across the river by husky slaves to the services when the roads to his own Pohick Church, in Virginia, were impassable.

Eight Are Confirmed.

The services were begun at 10:30, a. m., when Bishop Freeman confirmed a class of eight. The address followed. At noon a box lunch was served in the parish hall.

The afternoon services were opened by the singing of "Lead Us, Heavenly Father." Dr. William H. Leighman, rector of St. John's Church, gave a brief historical address. The church, he pointed out, was founded in 1723. The building was arected on land purchased from the Emperor of the Piscataways, grand sachem of all the Indian tribes along the Potomac.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT is Miss Katharine Roberts, down from New York doing a little Capitalizing on behalf of the American Theater Society, who not only brings reassurance that the Society, in conjunction with the Theater Guild, will book a subscription group of six plays in Washington next season, but goes further and makes definitely known that the subscription blanks have arrived at local headquarters and can be procured upon application to Mrs. Sidney Thomas, in the National Theater offices.

INA CLAIRE.

Although Washington is to have a season of American Theater Society subscription plays, a number of cities which were included in the Society's activities last year have been dropped from the list. Only those which were definitely felt to be distinct centers of appreciation and support for the best the modern theater has to offer are being retained for membership in the A. T. S. for the winter of 1933-34.

The organization considers Washington one of its most valued cities—or so Miss Roberts would have you believe. By concentrating its interest in cities which showed a similar discrimination for the best, and by selecting the plays to be offered in accordance with an analysis of the preferences of those cities, gained through the experience of the past season, the American Theater Society feels that it will be able to give its subscribers increased satisfaction in the new program of plays.

As has already been made known through these columns, one of the early inclusions in the A. T. S's. list is S. N. Behrman's comedy, "Biography," in which Ina Claire, one of Washington's most brilliant contributions to the American theater, is the star.

For the new season the basis of subscription has been changed to accommodate varied tastes and pocketbooks. As has been announced, six plays will be offered—three to be Theater Guild productions; three to be selected from the plays of the other Broadway producers of the first rank. Subscriptions may be made for the entire group of six, or separately for either series of three.

The full subscription for six plays, including tax, will be $13.20, and exactly half that for either series of three, bringing the average to $2.20 a ticket, as against the regular box-office price of $2.75.

All it takes is a pencil and a little piece of paper to discover the advantage.

The pressure evidently is beginning to abate around the Treasury Department. Last night Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin, accompanied by Mrs. Woodin, found time to visit Loew's Fox to enjoy, as one musician another, Will Mahoney's performance on his "Maphoneyphone" and Elissa Landi, Ernest Truex, Marjorie Rambeau and David Manners in "The Warrior's Husband," on the screen.

Speaking of Secretary Woodin, a brief and cryptic message from the local executive offices of Loew's, Inc., consisting of three closely typed pages, packed tight with important names, conveys the modest tidings that the President's Cabinet, secretariat and "brain trust;" Vice President Garner and the leaders of the Senate; Speaker Rainey and a large representation of the House; high ranking officers of the U. S. Navy and others prominent in affairs of State are the invited guests of Loew's Palace Theater for an official premiere showing of "Hell Below," with Robert Montgomery, Walter Huston, Madge Evans and Jimmy Durante, tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

On a basis of braid alone, I doubt that this invited audience of naval experts will be off the gold standard when they sit down to appraise the merit of this M-G-M epic of the submersibles! Naval uniforms as I understand it, must contain 3.2 per cent gold braid by weight or there is no kick to them!

It is interesting to learn, from Harry Rosenfeld, their sponsor, that the foreign films being shown in Sidney Lust's Hippodrome Theater on Thursday and Friday nights of each week at 11:15 o'clock, are attracting audiences from points as distant as two hours by motor car in both Virginia and Maryland. The Washington Film Guild thus has hit upon an aspect of picture exhibition that well may develop into a "little theater" movement of considerable scope and importance.

Next week's attraction will be "Alone," a Russian language film that was two years in the making, under the directorship of Trauberg and Kozintzev, whose best known previous film was "The New Babylon."

The heroism of a young girl sent to teach in a remote Russian shepherds' village, deep in a wild and primitive land, forms the basis of the drama in "Alone." It was filmed in the actual shepherds' village in the distant Altai Mountains.

It was no little exciting, during the gay badinage of the delightful tea tendered the National Theater Players, the dramatic desks and a large company of friends yesterday afternoon in the Georgetown home of Dr. and Mrs. William C. Gwynn, whose daughter, Louise Harrison Gwynn, is making her professional debut with the Players in Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" this week, to learn that the blithe and statesque Miss Kathryn Givney is one's twin.

That is to say, we were both born on October 27—which also was the birth date of the late President Theodore Roosevelt—thus placing us among those sedate moderationists (and am I laughing!) known as Scorpios.

A Scorpio, according to all of the signs of the zodiac published in the Hagerstown Almanac and inlaid in brass in the floor of the Congressional Library, looks for all the world like a softshell crab. And we are all hardshells!

But if you must know everything there is to know about Miss Givney and me, the year, as I recall it, was 1915!

It won't be long now, although it probably will seem so. I mean, with the weather finally showing traces of spring, May 27, when the Crystal Pool will be thrown open for the season out at Glen Echo Park, to many will appear to recede rather than approach.

The Crystal Pool each summer caps the climax of an amusement resort that is scrupulously conducted under the managerial guidance of the veteran Leonard B. Schloss and which this year, especially, is receiving merited encomiums by reason of extensive improvements that place it among the leaders of amusement places of this character in the entire country.

The Drama Guild of Washington will hold its annual meeting at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, May 23, in the Cabinet Room of the Willard Hotel to hear the annual reports of officers and committees and to elect officers for the ensuing year. Capt. Doyle O. Hickey is chairman of the nominating committee.

In the New York Sun of Saturday, May 13, Ward Morehouse in his "Broadway After Dark" column laments the passing of the old-time showmen and producers and the bobbing up of a flock of opportunists who seek to take their places.

By a little thoughtful reading between the lines—and I judge this to be the reason Ward mailed me the piece—one learns the inside story of how a certain play that Washington saw before it went into New York happened to be produced under the ostensible trade-mark it purported to bear. The "producer" had never even seen the play in script or any other form.

Considering all the circumstances, it is a wonder it scored enough of a hit to keep it going on—or about—Broadway all this time!

Show business!

As warned here a day or two ago, an unusual exhibit of growing model gardens and floral displays from landscape artists, neighborhood garden clubs and florists, as well as winning designs of local architects in the recent contest held in conjunction with the Renovizing Washington campaign, opens today in the lobby of Loew's Fox Theater and will be kept on view throughout the ensuing week. This is the third successive season in which Loew's Fox has provided this elaborate and unique display.

All of which is of no help whatever when your grass needs cutting and your flower beds need weeding and your trees need pruning, as everybody's always do!

Join the U. S. stooping army and seed the world!

NATS BOW TO HILDEBRAND, 6-5, ON ERROR IN 10TH

Tribe Rallies To Overtake Nats' Lead

Whitehill's Poor Toss on Bunt Paves Way for Defeat.

Indian Rookie Pounded, But Registers Sixth Straight.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

ORAL HILDEBRAND, Cleveland's clever young pitcher, was out there on the mound at Griffith Stadium yesterday in an attempt for his sixth straight victory of the season and the Nats won it for him.

It required ten innings, but the Nats came through nobly for Hildebrand, contributing some loose infield play that accounted directly for two Cleveland runs which swayed the 6-5 decision in favor of the Indians.

Earl Whitehill, Joe Kuhel and Joe Cronin were the culprits. Whitehill was in a fair way toward hanging the first defeat on Hildebrand and as far as the matter of base hits is concerned he did have an edge over the young Cleveland right-hander, but looming large in the final analysis are his own error in the tenth and a boot by Cronin in the fifth, each of which figured in runs that were precious all afternoon.

Vosmik's Homer Ties Score.

The Indians had tied the score on Vosmik's home run into the left center field stands in the sixth and Porter's triple to center in the eighth. The game carried over into extra innings and in the tenth Hildebrand fell heir to his sixth straight win.

One was out when Burnett attempted a bunt that Whitehill fielded easily. He tossed it nonchalantly to Kuhel. It popped into Kuhel's mitt before Burnett reached the bag, and popped out again as Burnett arrived on the base. Gravity brought the ball back into Kuhel's mitt a split second too late, and Umpire Owens ruled Burnett safe. The throw was a bit high, and the official scorer charged Whitehill with the error, but Kuhel was an accessory.

Averill grounded to Myer for what should have been the third out and then Eddie Morgan stepped up and won the ball game with a clean single into left field to score Burnett.

Hildebrand was in there fighting to the finish, however. He held the Nats runless in the last four innings while his mates were tying the score, and he struck out three of the last four men to face him to wind up the game with a flourish, slipping over called third strikes on Cronin and Travis in the tenth.

Cronin's Error Gives Tribe Run.

Cronin had contributed one of the runs that helped the Indians to tie the score when he permitted Knickerbocker's easy grounder to slip through his glove to start the fifth. Knickerbocker scored after two were out when Burnett rapped a single to right field. Porter also tried to score from first on the play, but was nipped at the plate when Kuhel intercepted Goslin's throw as Burnett made a dash for second.

The events of the day dragged the Nats down to a second-place tie with the Indians again, a game behind the winning Yankees.

Cleveland got away to a two-run lead, bunching three hits off Whitehill in the second. Kamm got a single when Travis crossed in front of Cronin on the play, and the runs scored on Knickerbocker's double and Spencer's infield out.

The Nats were not long in solving Hildebrand. Kuhel led off the first inning with a lusty triple to center, but Manush, Goslin and Cronin couldn't move him a base. Travis singled in the second to no avail, but in the fourth the Nats batted around to take a 3-to-2 lead.

Goslin walked, Cronin singled and Travis was safe on Hildebrand's error. Schulte's fly scored Goslin and Luke Sewell scored Cronin and Travis with a double to right. Heinie Manush left three on base.

After the Tribe tied the score following Cronin's error in the fifth, the Nats took another one-run lead on Goslin's triple to the right-field fence, but the score was again deadlocked in the sixth on Vosmik's homer. The Nats untied it again when Myer and Sewell singled and Whitehill's fly scored Myer. But the Tribe pulled to even terms on Porter's triple in the eighth.

Eventually came the tenth.

Nats to Open Today With White Sox

Revamped Club Here; Thomas to Pitch; Ladies' Day.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WITH the Chicago White Sox, who make their first appearance of the season against the Nationals here today, top-heavy with right-handed hitters, Manager Joe Cronin is preparing to play the well-known baseball percentage and toss nothing but orthodox pitchers in opposition. He has Bridegroom Alphonse (Tommy) Thomas, "Prof." Monte Weaver and "General" Al Crowder ready to go in in the order named. Ted Lyons is expected to do the mound work for the visitors.

The usual Friday ladies' day invitation has been extended by the Nats.

Speaking of ambitions, Bib Falk, present Cleveland coach, had an unusual one when he was active in the game. It was to get safe at first on a drive that hit a rival pitcher. Bib was continually maiming allen fingers and invariably was tossed out on the drives. In one series in Boston, it is said, he broke Syl Johnson's jaw with a liner, made pulp of Win Ballou's Adam's apple with another and the next day almost ruined Hal Wiltse's stomach with still another. And he was tossed out at first on each occasion.

Scout Joe Engel left Washington last night for Chattanooga, where he will remain for a couple of days and then start on a scouting trip for the Nats, taking in the small leagues between his Southern Association base and working back toward the Capital.

Travis made his first Nat mistake in the second when he cut over for Kamm's roller, blinding Cronin so he could not make the play. In fairness to the Washington shortstop-pilot, Kamm was credited with a hit. This helped the Tribe score an extra run in the round.

Pitcher Oral Hildebrand faced the Nats yesterday with quite a record for the young season. He had held the Browns to one hit and allen runners had not passed second in another game or third in still another. Kuhel's triple opening the game prevented him from equalling two of these marks yesterday, while Travis' single in the third ruined any hopes he might have had of duplicating his one-hit performance. But all this didn't prevent the right-hander from turning in his sixth straight victory.

Joe Kuhel was exceptionally busy in the early rounds yesterday. He was credited with seven put-outs out of the first nine. All told, he had 18 chances, with Buddy Myer and Cecil Travis having nine apiece.

Catcher Luke Sewell anticipated the hit-and-run with Knickerbocker on first and Spencer up in the fifth and called for a pitch-out, but Myer failed to get over to second in time and a stolen base resulted. Knickerbocker had been given life on Cronin's error. He later scored to tie the string at 3-all.

The Indians put up a big squawk on the play that ended the allen fifth, when Porter was called out at the plate when trying to follow Knickerbocker home on Burnett's single. The batter was trapped between first and second and the play was then shifted to Porter. According to Umpire Van Grafian, Porter was out two ways—for not touching the plate and for running out of the line. You can take your choice.

Sewell's single in the sixth was made when he reached for a pitch-out and dropped a lazy looper in short right. It propelled Myer from first to third.

Miller, Lunn, Maginnis, Nee Win

C. U. Youth's Irons Beat Pitt, 4 and 3, in Surprise.

Nee Rallies to Down McCarthy in Chevy Chase Tourney.

By DAVE HERMAN.

A DARK horse in the person of Charlie Maginnis, Catholic University senior, bobbed up along the golf horizon yesterday and dealt Harry Pitts' hopes of regaining his Chevy Chase invitation laurels a knockout blow.

With a steady exhibition, Maginnis eliminated Pitt, three times champion, in the quarterfinals match by the surprisingly large count of 4 and 3 in the most severe upset of the day.

The stocky, bull-necked Maginnis, a transfer student from Holy Cross, who plays his golf at Brookline and Cape Cod, Mass., forged into the semifinals along with the medalist, Maurice Nee, of Manor; John R. Miller, of Beaver Dam, District champion of champions, and Dick Lunn, towering Chevy Chase entry.

Maginnis will pit his skill against Nee this mroning, starting at 10 o'clock, while five minutes later Miller will tee off against Lunn. The finals are slated for 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Maginnis Downs Nolan.

The only one from a quartet of college challengers to survive the opening day, Maginnis won his opening match from M. Parker Nolan, Manor invitation finalist, by 1 up. Both scored poorly, but the college youth showed the stronger finishing powers.

Nee, whose record-breaking 67 in the qualifying round Monday, created a furore, was given a tight battle by Tom Belshe in the morning, winning 3 and 1, and had to make a gallant comeback in the afternoon before putting away the fighting Martin McCarthy, of Beaver Dam, 2 and 1. The young Georgetown prep star was 3 down going to the eighth, but regained his stride and won five consecutive holes in par figures.

Miller entered the semifinals by disposing of Walter Tynan, young Georgetown student, 2 and 1, and beating Maj. E. A. Noyes, lanky Army and Navy star, 4 and 2. Noyes was 3 down at the turn. Miller had par in for a 73.

J. Monro Hunter, jr., long driving golfer, whose father is pro at Army and Navy, staged a courageous uphill fight to carry Dick Lunn to the

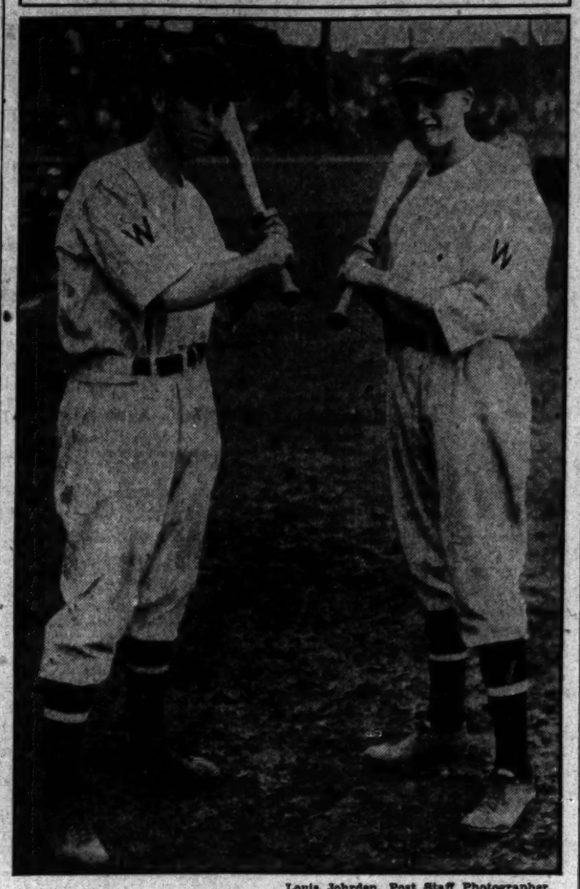
Nats' Talented Infield Rookies



Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

Injuries to regular infielders uncovered a pair of clever recruits for the Nats during the past two weeks. Cecil Travis (left), late of Chattanooga, scintillated at third base during the Cleveland series and batted .533. Boken won three games virtually single-handedly for the Nats in the West before he was injured. He has hit .359 in twelve games. They swing from opposite sides of the plate.

ALLEN WINS FOR YANKS IN DEBUT

Allows Tigers 5 Hits and Fans Six in Series Sweep.

NEW YORK, May 18 (A.P.).—Johnny Allen, leading American League pitcher last year, made his 1933 debut for the Yankees today and let the Detroit Tigers down with five hits to give the Yanks a 5-to-1 victory and a sweep of the two-game series.

Allen, who was stricken with influenza during the training season and recovered slowly, fanned six, gave only two passes and seldom was in trouble. The only Detroit run came in the seventh when Earl Combs lost Ervin Fox's fly in the sun and it went for a triple.

Sarazen Shoots 69 To Defeat Ouimet

Newton, Mass., May 18 (U.P.).—Playing subpar golf and breaking the course record, Gene Sarazen, National and British Open champion, today defeated Francis Ouimet, former National Amateur champion, 3 and 1, in their 36-hole exhibition match.

The first 18 holes were played yesterday at Weston Golf Club with Sarazen ahead 1 up at the conclusion of the day's play. Today, at Charles River Country Club, Ouimet forced him to 69, 3 below par, to win the match. Ouimet himself did the course in par. Sarazen shot 6 birdies in today's rounds.

REDS WIN, 1-0; ONE HIT OFF JOHNSON

Braves Are Shut Out; Triple by Hafey Results in Run.

CINCINNATI, May 18 (A.P.).—For the second time this season, Silas Johnson shut out the Boston Braves with only one hit, and the Cincinnati Reds won today, 1 to 0.

Only Jordan, of the Braves, was able to scratch a hit off the veteran in nine fast innings. His was a single. Meanwhile, the Reds wrested the margin of victory from Frankhouse when Hafey tripled in the seventh—the only extra base of the game—and scored on a single by Moore. It was Johnson's third 1-to-0 victory in as many weeks, the Chicago Cubs having been his victims as well as the Braves.

Shikat Slams Speers for Victory

3,500 Watch Rough Bout Decided in 32½ Minutes.

Marshall Victor Over Davis; Zaharias Beats Fischer.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

SKILL triumphed over brute strength at the Auditorium last night, where Dick Shikat, the one guy who isn't claiming the world championship, threw Frank Speers after 32½ minutes of laborious struggling in the feature match of the wrestling show. Approximately 3,500 fans saw and enjoyed the proceedings, especially when Ben Bortnick thumped Shikat on the back three times and said, "You win, big boy."

It's the same old Speers. Hasn't changed one iota in a twelvemonth. He fumed and fretted; yelled at Bortnick for interfering with his tactics; glared scornfully at the patrons when some highly uncomplimentary remarks bounced off the eardrums, and in general conducted himself like anything but the Southern gentleman that he isn't.

Shikat Absorbs Punishment.

Shikat absorbed a large amount of punishment at the start, permitting himself to be cuffed about from post to post, kicked and punched until it seemed that he would fall unconscious. Shikat looked at Bortnick and protested the rough tactics.

"You got two knees," Bortnick yelled. "Use 'em on him."

And Shikat did. When he applied the pressure Frankie felt it. Once Dick sat on the big fellow's back, grabbed both feet and rocked back and forth like the stroke on Navy's pulling over the finish line at Poughkeepsie. The entire house helped him count.

The crowd went wild when Speers missed a running dive at the German, bounced out of the ropes and attempted another. Shikat stepped aside and gave him an extra shove

Dodgers Sweep Series, Beating Cards, 14 to 5

St. Louis, May 18 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Dodgers needed just one inning today to clinch a clean sweep of their three-game series with the Cardinals. They scored eight runs on seven hits and two walks off Jim Mooney and Dazzy Vance and won, 14 to 5.

Mooney was driven to cover after giving up four hits, a pair of passes and six runs in two-thirds of an inning. Vance pounded for two more runs in the same frame, was batted out in the fourth when the Dodgers added three more runs. Owen Carroll pitched the full game for Brooklyn, ringing up his fifth victory and the fourth straight for the Dodgers.

Vines, Allison Easy Victors Over Canadians in Singles

MONTREAL, May 18 (A.P.).—The United States Davis Cup team today jeopardized the chances of Canada's remaining in the international tennis competition as Ellsworth Vines, the national champion, and Wilmer Allison, No. 2 ranking player, swept through the opening singles matches in the North American Zone final.

Complete masters of their rivals from the time they took the courts, Allison defeated Dr. Jack Wright, Canadian veteran, 6—2, 7—5, 6—2, in the opening match and then Vines blasted his way to a 6—3, 6—1, 6—3 victory over Gilbert Nunns, young Toronto star.

Victory tomorrow in the doubles, in which George Lott and John Van Ryn will oppose Marcel Rainville and Dr. Wright, will send the United States team into the interzone final against Argentina at Washington, D. C., next week.

Vines was at his best, when he so desired. The lanky Californian shuffled about the court, apparently in no hurry, but Nunns' returns nearly always found him at the right spot to drive a hard placement to the back court or drop the ball just over the net while the Canadian stood flat-footed.

Allison kept Dr. Wright on the defensive almost all the way. Only in the second set, when a high wind seemed to bother the Texan more than it did the Canadian veteran, was Wright able to match Allison's game. He took a lead of four games to one, but that was as near as he got to victory.

Chevy Chase Club Plans For Davis Cup Contests

Tennis devotees throughout Washington are looking forward with keen interest to the interzone Davis Cup matches next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Chevy Chase between Argentina and the winner of the United States-Canada final.

The Argentine team, composed of Dr. Adrano Zappa, captain; Dr. Hector Cattar and A. Eckeverria, have been at Chevy Chase practicing on their shots for nearly a week.

Notices for series tickets and boxes were sent out yesterday by Lawrence A. Baker, chairman of the Chevy Chase tennis committee and member of the American Davis Cup committee. Application blanks may be obtained from Mr. Baker at 810 American Security Building, 730 Fifteenth street; Chevy Chase Club, Junior League Clubroom at 1518 Connecticut avenue or Spalding's, 1338 G street.

6,000 SEE TRED AVON WIN BOWIE INAUGURAL EASILY

Action Runs 2nd, But Is Ruled Out

The Gen Pays $43 in Taking First of Day's Races.

Cutie Face Surprise Victor; Mexico Also Triumphs.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

TRED AVON, considered the best mare ever foaled in Maryland and winner of stakes galore, scored an easy victory in the Inaugural Handicap which featured the program opening the 11-day meeting at nearby Bowie yesterday. The opening day, coming more than a month later than usual and under summer skies, was in contrast to the cold winds that greeted the bangtails here in past Aprils. But the 10,000 crowd which usually turned out was down to a light 6,000 yesterday.

The S. W. Labrot interests, which have played a prominent part in racing hereabouts this year, sent Tred Avon and Springsteel to the post in the mile and 70 yards test. And after the disqualification of Action, which finished second, the Labrots collected first and second money, Clotho moving into the third money position.

Tred Avon must have been about an hour the best of the field. She was a sufferer when Action, rounding the clubhouse turn, piled up the field in cutting for the rail. Steffen, riding the ultimate winner had to pull up. However, she soon regained her stride and was moving up fast as the field approached the far turn, with Action and Scotch Gold battling for the lead.

Springsteel Closes With Rush.

On the swing for the stretch, Tred Avon came through to go after the speeding Action, caught him at the quarter pole and drew away. Springsteel, far back most of the rout, closed with a rush.

The entry was the public choice and paid $3.60. The Linton Stable's Cutie Face was a surprise winner of the secondary feature in one of the closest finishes of the Maryland season. Miss Mary Corning's Illusive was the beaten filly. Star Porter accounted for the show after being installed the favorite. Illusive moved up beside Cutie Face in the stretch, and for some 50 yards it looked like a dead heat, but the Linton Farms' filly slid a little ahead at the finish.

Bowie, noted for longshots, was off to a flying start when Johnny Gilbert road The Gen home at a $43 mutuel in the opening race, a six-furlong sprint. Soupcon, the favorite, was second with Cordoba third.

Instigation Wins Second Race.

The favorite players got a break in the second race when Sonny Workman brought Instigator home ahead of those that sprinted. Renovah was second and Mordron third. The winner paid $5.

Mexico, backed into favoritism, led from the barrier rise in the third race to defeat Prometheus and Ima Queen. Mexico was played in China, the tropics and on the west coast of the Red Sea, paying a $3.60 mutuel.

Indian Runner came from far back in the field to take the sixth race by three lengths from Monel. Levaal, which set the early pace, lasted to show. Indian Runner paid $11.

Banderlog, the C. V. Whitney plater, won the final. General Lejeune was second and Gramarye third.

Races Betting Measure Sent to Texas Governor

Austin, Tex., May 18 (A.P.).—The Texas legislature today sent to Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson a measure to legalize the certificate system of wagering on horse races. The legislation was attached as a "rider" to a free conference report on the departmental appropriations bill.

Action became final when the Senate adopted the report. The House had approved it yesterday by a vote of almost two to one.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE GEN, $43.00, $19.20, $8.20; SOUPCON, $4.00, $3.00; CORDOBA, $10.60.

THE GEN, hustled into a forward position and, following CORDOBA closely, displaced the latter to draw clear when straightened into the home stretch, but had to be shaken up stoutly nearing the end to stall off SOUPCON. Latter, squeezed back when leaving the back stretch, regained his stride and closed stoutly when clear. CORDOBA was hard ridden all the way and continued gamely. CALGARY KAY lost ground for the entire trip and raced on his own courage. CHLO BOY raced into contention midway of the turn, but was not good enough. BATTLING KNIGHT lacked early speed. ALLANAH had no excuses. WISE MONEY had speed in the opening quarter-mile.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—INSTIGATOR, $5.80, $3.40, $2.80; REVONAH, $4.40, $3.60; MORDROM, $3.80.

INSTIGATOR, kept within striking distance of CLEAR KNIGHT, wore the latter down when straightened into the home stretch, was kept under severe pressure and had enough left to withstand REVONAH's stubborn determination in the final three furlongs and continued stoutly at the end. MORDROM, saving ground and well placed, weakened slightly during the final drive. CLEAR KNIGHT showed good speed for five furlongs and then began to tire. ETERNAL MAID could not get to the leaders. FAIR SUN made up some ground in the late stages. POSTPONEMENT had early speed.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:38. Off at 3:39. Winner, S. W. Labrot's b. or br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MEXICO, $3.60, $2.40, $2.20; PROMETHEUS, $2.60, $2.20; IMA QUEEN, $2.60.

MEXICO, beginning quickly and going into an easy lead, raced restrained until midway of the turn, was mildly shaken up and came out smartly through the stretch drive. PROMETHEUS, well up and close to the leaders, made a tenacious effort rounding the turn, but was not good enough when reaching the home stretch. IMA QUEEN, going forwardly, worked her way up on the inside of PROMETHEUS, but tired during the final furlong. PRETTY WISE was racing stoutly in the closing furlong. MISCHIEFMAKER showed a flash of speed at the turn. DUNROCK could not better his position.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Old Virginia. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:10. Off at 4:12. Winner, Linton Farms' c. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CUTIE FACE, $15.60, $4.80, $2.60; ILLUSIVE, $3.00, $2.20; STAR PORTER, $2.20.

CUTIE FACE, following close to the pacemaker, moved up fast when approaching the home home stretch, wore STAR PORTER down and bolding on gamely just lasted long enough. ILLUSIVE drew on a late rally with the winner during the closing furlong and held on strongly until the finish. STAR PORTER, quick to get going and having good speed, was kept in the better footing, but weakened fast after being overtaken. REDRESS moved through on the inside entering the home stretch, but could not threaten seriously. BLESSED EVENT was done after three furlongs. FLAG VIEW lost ground all the way.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRED AVON (entry), $3.60, $3.00, $2.10; SPRINGSTEEL (entry), $3.00, $2.60; CLOTHO, $9.60.

TRED AVON, blocked when entering the back stretch and forced to be eased back, was not hurried to reach her field, moved up on the outside when ready and coming around her opposition with excellent speed, wore ACTION down and finished under pressure. ACTION came over sharply going to the first turn and piled up his field. He had good speed to race REHOBOTH and CANRON into submission and then held on well. He was disqualified for crossing his field at the first turn. SPRINGSTEEL, forced to the outside to avoid trouble at the break, worked his way up around the leaders and closed gamely. CLOTHO went along in the thick of contention and finished gamely. REHOBOTH weakened after six furlongs. CANRON tired, as did SCOTCH GOLD. CANTORIA raced very wide.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:16. Off at 5:19. Winner, D. A. Woods' blk. or br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—INDIAN RUNNER, $11.00, $6.20, $6.80; MONEL, $9.00, $5.80; LEVAAL, $8.80.

INDIAN RUNNER, a slow beginner, settled in his full stride after the initial furlong, secured racing room between horses when approaching the home stretch, wore LEVAAL down and drew out rapidly at the end. MONEL had a lot taken out of him forcing the early pace, but held on well to outlast LEVAAL. Latter also had been speeded for the first five furlongs, but tired fast after saving a lot of ground. BUTTER BEANS weakened after moving up strongly midway of the turn. TRAFFIC JUDGE raced evenly. WISE COUNT broke slower that usual and showed dull speed. He can do better. ENGLISH KNIGHT raced stoutly for a half mile.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:40. Off at 5:45½. Winner, C. V. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BANDERLOG, $3.00, $2.40, $2.40; GENERAL LEJEUNE, $2.60, $2.00; GRAMARYE, $5.80.

BANDERLOG, slow to reach his best stride, was taken around his field when moving up fast in the last five furlongs, was placed to punishment during the final furlong and, disposing of GENERAL LEJEUNE, was gradually drawing clear under stout urging. GENERAL LEJEUNE took command midway of the back stretch, was kept in the better footing, but tired steadily in the late stages. GRAMARYE entered contention steadily and finished with good energy. THE DOCTOR raced forwardly and held on well. He may have needed this race. FLYING MAX was outrun. CATERER stopped as did TODD ZEV.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, MAY 18.

DEAR AL:

Well, friend, I was first to have it and now I'll be first to deny it. I mean those lines I had about Les Dye, the jockey who was ruled off for life for pulling a horse at Sportsman's Park, being a brother of Johnny Gilbert. Talked with the rider yesterday and he said it was all wrong. Seems that those who put out the report had Dye confused with Joe Dyer, a rider, who is Johnny's brother. Gilbert is the adopted name of the 1932 jockey champion. Two winners for the boy yesterday. If you must get on the line today, here's some material for your consideration.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—TOPPLE goes on top of this heap. Hasn't run his race since coming up from Florida. Should like this track, has worked well and will appreciate the added distance. PEEDEEQUE is a fast closer and will have more room to get running. THE BAILIFF for the show.

SECOND RACE—NEALON KAY will be out for the first time today and I understand he has been working well. LOUGHPORT is rounding into form and may be second. GRACE BLOTTER may be a factor if she gets in action.

THIRD RACE—PELHAM is a pretty good maiden. Ran two good races at Pimlico and seems most likely of those to earn the first set of brackets. BROAD BILL has been working encouragingly. HELP ME may show to better advantage among these.

FOURTH RACE—I understand that the DUNFERN boys took a beating last day at Pimlico. They mean business here and will put an experienced rider aboard. UNENCUMBERED is easily the one to beat. BELOW COST for the rest.

FIFTH RACE—BALLY BAY is good, as I have been trying to tell you. Appears to have bitten off a little more than he can chew here, but I don't believe it. Saddle slipped in that Ladino race. ANNIMESSIC is too sharp to be far out of it. AEGIS for the show.

SIXTH RACE—EGAD ran a fine race behind Garlic the first time out and off that gets the Bennings call here. DARK VISION has shown some promise. WAR TIDE for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—TUFFY G. seems the logical choice in this race, with CLOUDY DAY second. CATERER ran a good race in yesterday's final and may be close in this.

Pimlico Gets Even Break At Meeting

Preakness Day Crowd Savior; Betting Is Off Million.

BALTIMORE, May 18 A.P.).—Despite almost incessant rain, the epidemic of coughing among the horses and the general depression, Pimlico Race Track was able to "just about break even" during its fifteen-day spring meeting that ended yesterday.

"All things considered, we had a very successful meeting," Matthias I. Daiger, secretary of the Maryland Jockey Club, operators of the track, said today.

The crowds were "remarkably good," Daiger said, especially when it is considered that there were only three days during the fifteen when rain did not fall. Fortunately, one of these clear days was last Saturday, when the Preakness was run. A total of 39,000 paid customers attended then to aid materially in keeping the track from going in "the red."

Betting Falls Off Million.

Betting was off this year, a situation Daiger ascribed to the general economic situation. The total amount bet this year was $4,045,656. Last year the betting was $5,148,655.

This year $736,440 passed through the mutuel machines on Preakness day, while on Preakness day last year, although the crowd was not so large, the wagers amounted to $903,554.

The epidemic of coughing that struck the stables late in the Havre de Grace meet reached its peak at Pimlico, and many of the best mounts were prevented from participating in the races.

Daiger pointed out that the track taxes amount to approximately $10,-500 a day—the State taking $6,000 a day, Baltimore County getting $3,000 a day and Baltimore City about $1,500 a day.

CENTRAL NINE IS CHOICE OVER TECH TODAY

Interest High Over Battle For Title

Maroon and Gray's Best Weapon Is Fighting Spirit.

Both Are Undefeated and Have Passed Hardest Games.

THE interhigh school baseball championship will be decided this afternoon at Eastern Stadium, where Central and Tech clash in their annual battle of "two-knocker." Heretofore baseball games between the schools have failed to arouse the faintest trace of enthusiasm among the fans. The attendance fell off so much officials almost had to throw in a couple of free-for-alls to lure the patrons inside.

This year it is different. Neither team has been defeated and both have passed the roughest part of the schedule, exclusive of this afternoon's game. On paper it looks like Central has a razor-edge advantage. It has a good pitcher in Claude Cowan, a well-balanced defense, one dozen good bats and seven or eight boys who know how to use them.

Tech has a capable moundsman in Eddie Turner, a weaker infield than that of its rival, and an outfield that could be a trifle stronger. In batting the Maroon and Gray has a slight edge, as official batting statistics for the series will show, but its most effective weapon is fighting spirit, the kind that brought it from behind to victory over Eastern last week. The problem of stopping a team imbued with the do or die spirit continues to vex boards of strategy.

Spirit Is Reflected In Team's Work.

It is interesting to note that Tech was a hotbed of unrest early in the year, when it was not known whether the baseball series would be played. Interest in the game had waned and the school authorities were on the verge of erasing it from the calendar. But they gave the students a voice in the matter and they voted to retain the game by an overwhelming majority. The spirit of the student body is reflected in the team's work on the field. Tech starts fighting in the first inning and doesn't stop until the final putout has been made.

But Central, with its veteran combination, still rules the favorite. It has spirit, backed up by power, perhaps enough spirit to match Tech's and a little too much punch.

Shows Form

who suffered an attack of influenza this spring, made his debut for the Yanks yesterday, hurling to a 5-to-1 win over the Tigers.

G. W. Nine to Meet Western Maryland

Boasting a two-game winning streak and hopeful of bettering its .500 average, George Washington tackles a strong foe in Western Maryland tonight at Griffith Stadium in the outstanding event on today's intercollegiate sports program. The Colonial tennis and golf teams meet Washington and Jefferson and Delaware, respectively. Maryland's tennis match with Western Maryland at College Park completes the card.

Jimmy Howell, victor over Salem College in his last start, will hurl for the District nine. Cal Griffith, who pitched the team to victory over Mount St. Mary's Wednesday, will be behind the plate. The remainder of the team, which was revamped just before the M. S. M. game, will be the same.

A gala night has been planned. At 7 o'clock there will be a concert by the Elks Boys Band and a parade around the field of 160 playground athletes who later will participate in the finals of the relay championships.

G. W.'s tennis team engages Pittsburgh at Columbia Country Club, and the golfers encounter Delaware at the Washington Golf and Country Club, both at 2:30 o'clock.

SHIKAT IS WINNER OVER FRANK SPEERS

as Speers went by. Back and ---- from one side of the ring to the other bounced Speers. Finally he gave up. He went into a corner, put one foot up on the rope and struck the pose of a thinker. Evidently he decided on the wrong procedure. A crotch hold, followed by a trio of body slams heralded the end.

Marshall Turns in Victory.

Everett Marshall tossed Carl Davis in the semifinal with a body slam that sounded like a paperhanger slapping on a sheet of fresh wall paper. Both boys stole a bit of "Doc" Wilson's act and when involved in a tough hold promptly thumbed the other fellow in the small of the neck. It worked every time. Davis lasted just 14 minutes.

George Zaharias tossed Ell Fischer in 19 minutes with a body press whereupon the place resounded with a chorus of more bo-- than Hitler would get in Palestine. Ralph Wilson went 30 minutes to a draw with John Katan and Vic Christy did the same with "Chief" Chewaki.

28 Schools Entered in 'C' Meet

Richmond Team Enters Tomorrow's Track Games.

THE entry of Thomas Jefferson High School, of Richmond, Va., in the annual "C" Club track and field meet, to be held tomorrow in Wilson Memorial Stadium, has been received by the committee, bringing the total number of schools entered to 28. Three hundred and twenty-five athletes will compete.

With Eastern, Tech, Woodberry Forest and Episcopal holding two legs on the Emory Wilson Memorial Trophy, it is likely that the cup will be awarded to one of the quartet for permanent possession this time. Mercersburg Academy represents the greatest threat to a victory for one of the group. The winning team also gets a leg on the Cornell Alumni trophy.

Casey Cup for Relay Winner.

Gene Casey has put up a cup for the winning team in the 1-mile relay, the feature race of the meet. Mercersburg's crack mile team has entered the race and is a strong favorite to cop the honors. Other trophies to be awarded include the James H. Sprigman Cup to the winning team in the junior high school division, and the George Hamilton trophy for the team placing second in the high school division.

Winfree Johnson will act as judge and Dr. Harvey A. Smith, principal of Central, will be honorary judge. School children will be admitted for 10 cents, the tickets to be procured at school. Admission for adults has been reduced from a dollar to 25 cents.

City of Washington Net Entries to Close Tonight

ENTRIES for the men's singles in the City of Washington tennis tournament will close tonight at 6 o'clock, Bill Shreve, secretary of the District association, announced last night. Entries should be sent to him at the tennis shop.

The tournament will open tomorrow at the Sixteenth street reservoir courts and close to 100 are expected to participate.

Entries for the women's singles and doubles and the men's doubles will close Saturday evening at 6 o'clock.

Dooley Mitchell, versatile District tennis player, is the defending champion. Having won the title twice in succession, Mitchell must capture it a third time before taking permanent possession of the McLean trophy. Another former City of Washington titleholder, Tom Mangin, will be one of the ranking contenders, as will Anthony Latona, Frank Shore and Gene Herman.

Reba Kirson, who won the women's singles last year, is not entered this season.

Earnshaw in Form As A's Rout Chisox

Philadelphia, May 18 (A.P.).—Behind the six-hit pitching of big George Earnshaw, the Philadelphia Athletics pounded four Chicago White Sox hurlers for 15 hits and a 9-to-1 victory today.

Going into the ninth, it looked as if the A's big right-hander was due to register a shutout triumph, but an enemy hit and a pair of Athletics errors brought the Sox' one run across. It was Earnshaw's first appearance on the mound since April 24.

BAPTIST GATHERING GREATEST ON EARTH, PAT NEFF DECLARES

Former Texas Chief Lauds Coming Meeting Before Men's Conference.

The convention of Baptists of the United States which opens here today, with Southern Baptists meeting first, was hailed last night by Pat M. Neff, former governor of Texas, as "perhaps the greatest religious gathering ever held on earth."

Addressing the Baptist Men's Conference at the Calvary Baptist Church, Mr. Neff declared that the convention is both a challenge and an opportunity to spread further the Gospel throughout the world. He urged the conventions to go to work with "hats off to the past and coats off to the future."

The challenge presented Baptists was also emphasized by J. L. Kraft, chairman of the board of deacons of the North Shore Baptist Church, Chicago, Ill. R. E. Gaines, of the University of Richmond, spoke on the "Laymen's Place in Christ's" program. J. H. Anderson, of Knoxville, presided.

The meeting concluded the Baptist Men's Conference which lasted throughout the day.

Missionary Unit Meets.

Another important preliminary meeting to the general convention was the forty-fifth annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Union, auxiliary to the Southern Baptist convention.

Concern was expressed at the meeting over the shrinkage in missionary funds, which has necessitated the recalling of many workers from the foreign field. It was voted to urge 100,000 persons to contribute 25 cents a week for a year in an effort to swell the missionary fund.

This plan will be submitted to the executive board of the Southern Baptist convention. Foreign missionary contribution fell from $3,500,166 in 1929, a prosperity year, to $1,867,168 in 1933, it was reported.

Delegates from 18 States attended the Women's Missionary Union meeting which was held in Constitution Hall. Mrs. F. W. Armstrong, of Plattsburg, Mo., was elected president to succeed Mrs. W. J. Cox, of Memphis, Tenn. Other officers were elected as follows:

Officers Elected.

Mrs. Katheleen Mallory, corresponding secretary; Miss Juliette Mather, young people's secretary, and Mrs. Sumter Lea, jr., assistant recording secretary, all of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. H. M. Wharton, of Richmond, Va., recording secretary, and Mrs. W. C. Lowndes, of Baltimore, Md., treasurer.

Approximately 4,000 delegates are expected to attend the Southern Baptist convention, which opens today at the Washington Auditorium. Dr. M. E. Dodd, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Shreveport, La., first vice president of the Southern Baptist Convention, will preside, owing to the inability of Dr. E. F. Brown, president, to attend the convention because of ill health. Dr. Dodd will be assisted by Dr. J. E. Dillard, of Birmingham, second vice president.

The Southern Baptist convention will continue until Tuesday, when it will combine in united meeting with the Northern Baptist convention, the first time in 88 years that the Baptists of the North and South will meet together. Slavery split the two groups in 1845.

The Northern Baptists will start an independent convention on Wednesday which will close the following Sunday.

D. C. BOARD POSTS ARE STILL IN DOUBT

Delay in Choosing Commissioners May Endanger Prospects of Some.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

The quicksands of public mention appear to be engulfing several of those who have been mentioned as among the most likely to be named District Commissioners.

President Roosevelt has withheld action for such a long time that the supporters of almost every candidate have found ample opportunity to dig up something against almost every other candidate and have sought a source through which the poison can be presented to the President, his secretaries or to Postmaster General "Big Jim" Farley.

Opponents of Ernest G. Walker are making a determined drive against him. Mr. Walker has been accepted as likely to be appointed, although he never has been an active candidate and has deprecated talk of his possible selection. Regarded as the front runner, Mr. Walker has sought for several weeks to extricate himself from the position.

Others Still in Race.

Supporters of Harry King, on the other hand, are pushing his banner forward, confident of his nomination. The King candidacy has received the indorsement of District business leaders, who also championed the candidacy of George W. Offutt, in charge of the troubles of the Potomac Savings Bank and formerly president of the Board of Trade.

The candidacy of Malcolm S. McConihe, which was supposed to have been overwhelmed by the pressure of the supporters of other candidates, has not been overwhelmed. Mr. McConihe is reported to stand a good chance.

In the background is, of course, the battle over the clique which shall name District Commissioners. The local Democratic organization is willing to submit several names to the President, one after the other. It is no secret that the organization leaders are strongly opposed to some of those whose names have been prominently mentioned as possible appointees. There have only been 60 or 70 names advanced.

Lobbies Busy in Fight.

It has approached something of a death grapple. The so-called social lobby, the Senate lobby, the House lobby, and this and that other lobby, all are busy in the fight. The local Democratic organization is fighting desperately against these cross-currents, contending that if even the combined weight is sufficient to displace the recognized Democratic District leaders it may mean the end of any Democratic organization in the District. It is said that there has been some blunt talk about the matter among those having to do with passing on local appointments.

Despite statements the President has not had time to consider the local situation, it is believed the Chief Executive has found time to discuss the matter with some advisors and has arrived at some tentative, if broad, decisions. But the list of the names to which consideration has been narrowed down is a matter of guess.

Proponents of various candidates continue confident about the nomination of Mr. Walker, Mr. King, Melvin C. Hazen, John A. Korman, Mr. McConihe and others.

Spanish Solo Dances Will Feature Concert

A group of Spanish solo dances culminated by an ensemble, the Cordova, will be featured in the Lisa Gardiner dance concert tonight at the Roosevelt High School, presented under the sponsorship of the Community Center department of the public school system. The Cordova will be presented by a group of eight dancers, led by Miss Gardiner.

Kathryn Mullowny, guest dancer from New York, will take part in the presentation of "Arabesque" and in a Chopin waltz, the latter being a number she has arranged especially for this occasion.

Business Men's Clubs Told of Renovize Drive

The work and purposes of the new renovize campaign were explained to the Federation of Business Men's Clubs last night by Francis Sullivan, of the renovizing headquarters, at a meeting in the Anne Clarendon Club, 1640 Rhode Island avenue northwest.

The federation voted to offer a silver cup as second prize in the coming high school cadet competitive drill. Date for the organization's annual outing was set for July 20.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

Be careful of passing cars without giving a warning signal on your horn. Even though drivers should keep their cars to the right of the road at all times, you can find quite a number who persist in driving near the middle of the street and the only possible way to get them out of the way is to make your presence known. Even this does not work sometimes.

The figures are:

	1932	1933
Deaths	48	26
Injuries	1,487	1,356
Accidents	3,246	3,080

TALL CEDAR PARADE WILL CLIMAX MEET

10,000 Expected to March With 50 Bands in Spectacle Tomorrow Afternoon.

A banquet last night of the Supreme Forest convention of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon completed the day's events of the convention, which will climax tomorrow afternoon with a spectacular street parade of more than 10,000 marchers.

Visiting delegates were regaled with music and entertainment during the affair, and heard a short address of welcome from Harry G. Kimball, grand master of Masons in the District.

The morning and afternoon were occupied with closed business sessions. Harry M. Littell, supreme tall cedar, presided.

Today's program will include the election and installation of officers in the morning, a visit to the White House for ladies at noon, a luncheon at the Raleigh Hotel, and in the afternoon an exhibition drill of rangers and bands on the Ellipse.

The grand ball will be held tomorrow night at the Raleigh, and at the same time a street dance and carnival under flood lights on Constitution avenue.

The convention will officially close at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night with the grand ceremonial of Capital Forest, to be held at the Belasco Theater.

The President has been invited to review the parade from the stand at Sixteenth street and Constitution avenue. Fifty bands will furnish music for a like number of marching units.

The parade will form at the Peace Monument and the line of march will be along Pennsylvania avenue to Fifteenth street and thence to Constitution avenue. It will begin at 2 p. m.

ROYAL SCOT VISITED BY THOUSANDS HERE

Famous British Train Tarries Here on Way to Chicago Fair.

The Royal Scot—Britain's record-holding flyer—slipped her stubby nose into the Union Station yesterday and was inspected and admired by more than 10,000 persons, including great numbers of school children.

All shiny and spick and span from her grooming for the Century of Progress fair at Chicago, the eight-coach maroon train was boarded by more than 1,000 school children who kept the guides busy asking questions. They were released from classes by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools.

And no less interested was Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, who was accorded a salute from the train's American whistle as he left the coaches. The whistle, headlight and bell are of American manufacture to comply with American railroad regulations.

The train is being run over American railways by William Gilbertson, skilled locomotive operator of England. He is accompanied by American locomotive engineers familiar with the particular section in which the run is being made. Other men included in the crew are Walter Woods, conductor, and John Jackson, stoker.

The train also is accompanied by Claude O. D. Anderson, Theodore C. Byron and Theodore D. Slattery, all officials of London, Midland & Scottish Railway.

Saluting the Capital with one long blast the train got under way at 9:30 last night for York, Pa., where it will next be on exhibition.

Policeman Cleared On Assault Count

A jury in Police Court yesterday acquitted Policeman Henry Clay Hinton of a charge of assault upon James J. Sheehy, jr., 18, of 4711 Georgia avenue northwest, when the officer testified that he used no more force in arresting the boy than was necessary.

Hinton said that he threw his night stick, and that he struck the boy on the head with his baton. He declared he never, at any time, used more than the necessary force to enforce an arrest. The officer was suspended when he allegedly struck Sheehy on the head when he broke up a game of "catch" between Sheehy and his brother.

The jury deliberated only 35 minutes before returning its verdict.

COMPANY C WINS COMPETITIVE DRILL AT GEORGETOWN U.

District Gets Many Cups as Competition Ends Year's Activities.

Featured by the awarding of a large number of individual prizes for scholarship and military efficiency and a competitive drill won by Company C, under the command of Cadet Capt. Joseph J. Muckerman, the annual military day events at Georgetown University yesterday brought its R. O. T. C. activities to a successful close.

For Maj. William H. Hobson, U. S. A., retiring Army commandant of the cadet corps, an unheralded event on the program was staged at the close of the "graduation" exercises when Cadet Capt. Henry B. Herrick, on behalf of the senior class, presented him with a fine shotgun.

Brig. Gen. George S. Simonds, U. S. A., commandant of the Army War College, reviewed the cadet battalion and band at the beginning of the program. A board of Army officers judged the competitive events.

After the review, led by Cadet Lieut. Col. John W. Ahern, of Arkansas, a series of competitive events was held. Interest centered in the individual drill contest. This was won by Cadet Charles A. McClenathan, of Pennsylvania, who was left standing alone after all others had been counted out for errors. He was awarded a silver cup donated by the Military Education Fund and presented by its secretary, Lieut. Col. Ralph C. Bishop.

Wrist Watch Awarded.

As the member of the graduating class who had done most to advance the interests of the R. O. T. C. during his four years at Georgetown, an officer's wrist watch was awarded to Capt. Elmer P. Freischlag, of New York. Gen. Simonds presented the award which is made each year by a former cadet commander of the unit, Capt. J. A. McDonough, of the New York National Guard.

The company commander competition, selected on a basis of general efficiency, was won by Cadet Capt. Henry B. Herrick, of Massachusetts. This award is a silver cup presented on behalf of the Washington Chapter of the Military Order of the World War by Lieut. Col. George E. Ijams, its senior vice commander-in-chief. To Cadet Capt. Muckerman and other members of the winning company in the competitive drill were presented the battalion colors and distinguished service ribbons.

A group of District of Columbia cadets particularly distinguished themselves. Cadet First Sergt. Robert W. Hall, of this city, winner of the highest score in the intercollegiate rifle match, was presented with the official medal by Lieut. Col. Lombard of the French Embassy. A second District student, Corpl. William R. Collins, winner of the second highest score in the matches, was presented his medal by Isaac Gans.

A silver cup to the winner of the platoon commanders' competition was presented to Cadet Lieut. John A. Largay, of New York, by Maj. Edwin S. Bettleheim, jr., department president of the Washington Chapter, Reserve Officers' Association.

District Cadets Win.

The first year basic course cup, presented this year by Maj. Hobson, was won by Cadet Private August H. Kramm, of the District of Columbia, with Private James S. Kernan, of New York, receiving honorable mention.

The second year basic course cup, presented by the prefect of discipline, Rev. John J. Kehoe, S. J., was won by Cadet William M. Byrnes, of New York, with Corporal Philip Tumulty, of the District of Columbia, receiving honorable mention.

Sergt. Robert W. Hall, of the District, won the cup for the first year advanced course, which was presented by the dean of the college, the Rev. Vincent J. Hart, S. J. Honorable mention went to another District cadet, John I. Griffin.

Cadet Lieut. Col. John W. Ahern, of Arkansas, received from the president of the university, Dr. Coleman Nevils, S. J., the silver cup in the second or senior year of the advanced course.

Special Prize Awards.

This year a special prize was awarded to Joseph Grzebik as the outstanding member of the university band over a period of seven years—three years in the college and four years in the dental school. This award, a silver trumpet, was donated by Capt. Karl Schaefer, the band leader. A medal, donated by members of the band, was awarded to the student drum major, Edward J. Fahy, of Illinois, in appreciation of his two years' leadership.

The university major "G" letter also was awarded to Drum Major Fahy and to 38 members who had served the band over two years.

Team Capt. David E. Tarry, of New Jersey, received for himself and other members of the Varsity Rifle Team the minor "G" for having complied with the Athletic Association's requirements. Team members, including Alan C. Schieck, of the District of Columbia, were Francis Ainsa, Henry G. Barrett, A. Barrera, William R. Collins, also of Washington; John Dischyshyn, Robert W. Hall, Robert A. Herring, Jacob P. Kunz, John A. Largay, Charles H. Raver, David N. Tarry and Charles Trundle.

$90,000 SCHOOL CUT CAUSES NEW PLANS

Board and Ballou Believe Jobs of All Satisfactory Teachers Saved.

Operation of the public-school system next year with $90,000 less for teachers and librarians, without the loss of jobs of any of these employes who are in good standing, loomed as a virtual certainty late yesterday after a three-hour closed meeting of the Board of Education.

Superintendent Frank W. Ballou was instructed to work out a plan embodying the following methods:

Retirement of teachers and librarians who reach their seventieth birthday during the fiscal year 1933 and whose services were continued to June 30 of this year, or of teachers and librarians when they reach their seventieth birthday during the school year 1934.

Termination of the services of temporary teachers by June 30, 1933

Termination of the services of teachers whose ratings are unsatisfactory.

Discontinuing positions which may become vacant through resignation, retirement or death between now and June 30, 1934.

Taking the recommendations of the board as a basis, Dr. Ballou will work out a plan and submit it at another meeting next week.

2 TO 3 YEARS GIVEN TO COUNTERFEITER

Youth, Who Shot 2 Capital Policemen, Also Is Fined $100.

Chief Justice A. A. Wheat yesterday sentenced Lester L. Lillie, 22, to an indeterminate sentence of from two to three years for shooting two policemen, and imposed a fine of $100 for counterfeiting.

Lillie, through attorney E. Russell Kelly, entered pleas of guilty to shooting Policemen Herman Lay and Arthur Gernhofer, at Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest, last February. He was being arrested by the officers when he shot at them through a coat pocket.

Lillie was arrested because he attempted to pass a counterfeit bill.

Attorney Kelly informed the court that the young man had been wiped out in the stock market and had then proceeded to lose some of his mother's funds.

CAPITOL CONFEREES AGREE ON 2 ITEMS IN DISTRICT FUND BILL

House and Senate Groups, However, Still Apart on Major Provisions.

With House and Senate conferees in agreement on only two minor provisions of the District appropriations bill, the conference group will meet again at 10:30 a. m. today in an effort to work out differences.

While there was no real "deadlock" at yesterday's session, conferees were said to have passed over the "lump sum" and other major controversial issues when it was found an agreement could not immediately be reached.

House conferees were declared to be unwilling to go one dollar over the $5,700,000 lump sum figure advanced in the House bill, while the Senate members were equally insistent on their $6,250,000 figure.

Another bone of contention was the $1,000,000 stricken from the bill by the Senate for the District's repayment to the Federal Treasury of park land funds.

It was said in one quarter that if the Senate was willing to yield on these two issues, certain influential members of the House conference group would accede to the Senate's request for use of unexpended balances for school construction and other District needs left out of the House bill.

Both House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan and Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, chairmen, respectively, of the two groups, said last night they were confident they would be able to work out an agreement after one or two more sessions. They indicated there were no showdowns at yesterday's session, but merely a sketchy consideration of all provisions of the bill.

John McLaughlin Dies Following Fall at Home

John McLaughlin, 38, 1435 Harvard street northwest, died late last night at Emergency Hospital from injuries suffered when he fell from a second story window at his home.

It is believed that a skull fracture caused his death. An inquest will be held today.

Fall From Window Hurts Woman, 59

Mrs. Pebbi Lowy, 59, of 1471 Irving street northwest, was in a serious condition at Casualty Hospital last night suffering from injuries inflicted yesterday afternoon when she fell from a third-story fire escape platform to a concrete areaway at her home.

She was rushed to the hospital in an ambulance and was treated for a possible fractured skull, fractured pelvis and internal injuries. Her general condition was said by physicians to be critical.

According to Julius Lowy, his mother called him, saying she was ill. Lowy said he went to the apartment and as he entered the front door, she ran to the fire escape, where she either fell or jumped to the ground.
